Wedemeyer Backs General MacArthur

Denies Any Plan to Back Move for Chinese Coalition

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer backed Gen. Douglas MacArthur today in denials that they ever had favored a plan to bring the Chinese Communists and Nationalists together in a coalition government.

The question became a sharp issue over the week-end because of testimony Secretary of State Acheson gave last week at the Senate investigation of MacArthur's dismissal from his Far Eastern commands.

Acheson read a 1945 message from Tokyo which quoted MacArthur, Wedemeyer and Adm. Raymond Spruance as favoring steps to "bring together and to effect a compromise between the major opposing groups in order to promote a unified democratic China."

Some senators interpreted the message as meaning the three men backed an effort Gen. George C. Marshall made later to bring the Chinese Nationalists and Communists together.

Marshall, now secretary of defense, went to China that year on a special assignment from President Truman.

Calls It Incorrect

Wedemeyer, testifying at the Senate hearings, said it was "absolutely incorrect" to interpret that message as meaning the three officers favored a Nationalist-Communist coalition.

MacArthur himself said Saturday that any inference he ever favored effecting a political coalition of "such diametrically opposed and irreconcilable forces" was "a prevarication without color of factual support."

Wedemeyer took sharp issue with Acheson also on another point. He said the cabinet officer had given the inquiry committee "the erroneous impression that I not only agreed with the State Department's pessimistic views concerning the future of Formosa, but that I even suggested the possible fall of that area to the Communists," the general added:

"I have never accepted the State Department's pessimistic view with reference to the future of Formosa. I have consistently and repeatedly recommended American-supervised aid to the Chinese Nationalists government, presently located in Formosa, in order to stop the advance of Communism in the Far East."

Views Expressed in 1949

The State Department's "pessimistic views," as Wedemeyer called them, were expressed in a 1949 document circulated to its representatives abroad. This paper anticipated the fall of Formosa to the Chinese Communists.

Wedemeyer said Acheson had wrongly interpreted the Wedemeyer-Spruance-MacArthur proposals as the basis for General Marshall's 1945-46 mission to China.

(Acheson, during questioning about the message Saturday, told senators he was not interpreting the message at all—that he was simply reading it to them.)

Wedemeyer said:

"On 6 June 1951 Secretary of State Acheson testified that MacArthur - Spruance - Wedemeyer were all in agreement in the winter of 1945 with reference to future U. S. policy in China.

Man Rescued, Fear Six Others Dead

Watched Father Slip From Grasp to His Death in Sound Waters

Fishers Island, N. Y., June 11 (AP)—Coast Guadrsmen today rescued a Meriden, Conn., man who helplessly watched his father drown late yesterday in the storm-whipped waters of Long Island Sound.

Vincent Lombardi of 509 Lewis avenue, Meriden, was found clinging to a spar from the fishing boat—"The Jack" which sank off "Consolation Rock" in the "Narrows" between Plum Island and Gull Island light at the east end of Long Island. Six persons, including a 10-year-old boy, are believed to have drowned.

A Coast Guard patrol boat rushed Lombardi to Lawrence Memorial Hospital at New London where he was reported suffering from exposure and shock.

At New London, Lombardi told a newsman he had clung to his father, Antonio "for hours" before the elder man slipped from his grasp.

Lombardi was one of three known survivors of the tragedy which occurred at 4 p. m. yesterday. No trace of the others has been found, it was said.

The other survivors are Captain "Bob" Thorsen of Brooklyn, N. Y., skipper of the craft, and a crewman identified only as "Schwartz."

These two were found aboard the mother cruiser "Cindy" of Milford, Conn., which was in distress and had to be taken in tow for New London by a Coast Guard vessel.

Damaged by Seas

Aboard the Cindy which had been badly smashed by heavy seas and had drifted helplessly most of the night, were five Milford men:

Henry Beloin of 17 Morehouse avenue; Walter Simon, Jr., of 24 Morehouse avenue; Linwood Ryan, and Edward Tander, Fairwood street; and Earl Wilcox, 24 Ard street.

At Milford, it was said the five borrowed the Cindy from Samuel Blichfeldt for a Montauk fishing trip, leaving there late Friday.

They were attempting to re-

San Antonio Man Has Heart Attack; Was Left $600,000

Lewiston, Ill., June 11 (AP)—William F. Crothers, 73, didn't live to enjoy the $600,000 estate he inherited from an eccentric woman relative he had never seen.

Crothers, of San Antonio, Tex., collapsed and died yesterday in the lobby of the hotel where he was staying. He apparently died of a heart attack.

Saturday, Fulton county Judge Albert Scott signed an order declaring Crothers the legal heir to the estate of Mrs. Martha Waggoner, about 70, wealthy recluse who died March 26.

Crothers and Mrs. Waggoner were first cousins. Crothers testified he had heard of his relative, but never had seen her.

Ferguson Praises Offer of President to Give Backing

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Senators were pretty generally agreed today that some of them would inquire into operations of the so-called Nationalist China Lobby. But, unlike most investigations, no one was clamoring to conduct it.

Two senators, a Republican and a Democrat, set off demands for a China Lobby inquiry last week during the Senate hearings into dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

They described the lobby to their colleagues as a shadowy organization backed by rich Chinese Nationalists and spending vast sums to influence U. S. foreign policy for their own political and financial gain.

The accusations, voiced by Senators Morse (R-Ore.) and McMahon (D-Conn.), had these swift results:

1. President Truman ordered all government agencies to lend active support to any congressional inquiry into the matter.

2. Demands arose among the senators that if the China Lobby is investigated, the activities of other foreign governments — friendly ones and potential enemies—come under the microscope, too.

3. Morse told reporters he would accept that idea, and would ask the Senate to order a far-flung inquiry if no one else takes the initiative.

Commends President

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), in a statement yesterday, commended Mr. Truman for offering to cooperate, and said any investigation should also embrace persons who "have supported the Chinese Communists."

In New York, importer Alfred Kohlberg said he is not a lobbyist for the Chinese Nationalists. Kohlberg is chairman of the American China Policy Association, a pro-Chiang Kai-shek group. Kohlberg has often been mentioned as a backer of the "China Lobby."

He told newsmen all his foreign policy activities have been purely personal and that he has never been a registered lobbyist or foreign agent.

He also said he did not believe the administration would conduct an investigation of the alleged China Lobby "because they will find the real 'China Lobby' is a pro-Communist lobby within the State Department.

Two Chinese Nationalist officials, at a news conference in New York, said they were mystified by references to a China lobby. If there is such a thing, they said, the Chinese Nationalist government has nothing to do with it.

Tried Persuasion

Dr. T. F. Tsiang, chief Chinese delegate to the United Nations, said he once had tried, at the request of American officials, to persuade Kohlberg to be more moderate in his statements about American foreign policy on China.

He said Kohlberg disregarded his plea, telling Tsiang he did not understand American customs. He said Kohlberg had never received

Five Men Are Killed At Cuban Navy Base

Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, June 11 (AP) — A flash fire caused by gasoline becoming ignited on the surface of the water took the lives of five men at the U. S. naval base pier here Saturday, naval officials said today. In addition one man is missing and 10 are being treated for injuries.

All the victims are attached to the base. They include three Cubans. Officials said names will be released by the Navy Department in Washington after next of kin are notified.

Damage to vessels in the area was relatively small.

Leopold Desires To Quit July 16, He Says in Letter

King's Eldest Son, 20, Would Be Crowned Following Day Fifth King

Brussels, Belgium, June 11 (AP)—King Leopold 3rd notified the Belgium government today he wants to abdicate on July 16.

He fixed the date in a letter to Prime Minister Joseph Pholien, who released the news today. The prime minister told a news conference the coronation of Prince Baudouin, the king's eldest son and now king in all but name, would be held the following day—July 17—before a joint session of Parliament.

Baudouin then will become Belgium's fifth king, Baudouin I.

In his letter, King Leopold said:

"I think that appeasement and concord are sufficiently achieved to make it possible for me to take a decision which will definitely insure the transmission of the royal powers to my son.

"My will is that the abdication ceremony, at the royal palace of Brussels, take place on July 16, 1951.

"The national interest and the stability of the dynastic institution call for a manifestation of concord."

Asks Acceptance

He asked that the political parties accept his decision and urged the prime minister to contact party leaders to this end.

The prime minister told reporters the abdication document will be signed by the king, the prince royal (Baudouin), the prime minister and the minister of justice.

Baudouin, the prince royal—or regent—turns 21 Sept. 7. He has been king in all but the name since last August, when he took the regent's oath before Parliament. With this act he assumed the king's constitutional powers at a time when Socialist-sponsored strikes and rioting forced Leopold into retirement. Only a few weeks before, Leopold had returned from a self-imposed exile of six years in Switzerland, after his surrender to the invading Germans in World War 2.

Bradley Returns From Europe; Is Expected to Give Report

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, returned today from a 10-day round of conferences with U. S., British and French military leaders in Europe.

The general reached National Airport at 6:55 a. m. (EST), about three hours ahead of the time he was due. His arrival was so early and unexpected there was no one on hand to meet him.

Bradley's report on his talks abroad will be the first of a series of personal studies by top defense officials from which a broad and up-to-date picture of America's global position can be assembled.

Bradley was expected to make a preliminary report during the day to President Truman and Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett.

Within the next ten days, President Truman will have available the observations and recommendations of three other Pentagon chiefs who simultaneously made high level reconnaissance missions to Europe and the Far East.

Their findings and suggestions probably will be integrated into a new, revised pattern of current and future policies. Despite their insistence that they have made the overseas trips only as military men and that no international political significance attaches to their visits, it is impossible to separate military affairs entirely from those of diplomacy.

Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, for a week has been conferring with the military chiefs of Britain and France with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the western European defense force. From them, individually and collectively, he has learned what is being done—and not done—to secure Europe against the menace of a Russian attack.

Meanwhile, the chief of the U. S. air force, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, has been checking up on the status of air power in western Europe.

The return of Secretary of Defense Marshall from his surprise journey to the Korean war front and Tokyo is expected within a day or two.

Early next week Secretary of the Air Force Finletter will come back from his trip to the Far East where, said the air force, he would inspect air "installations and activities." But the unobstrusive and inquiring Finletter has a habit of quietly looking into many things in addition to airplanes and bases when he travels abroad.

Marshall Leaves Tokyo by Air for Washington After Conferences

Tokyo, June 11 (AP)—U. S. Defense Secretary Marshall says the Chinese Reds "have got themselves into a difficult situation."

He added that he did not expect any Chinese peace move soon. Shortly thereafter, he left by air for Washington.

Marshall expressed no optimism about an early end to the Korean war. Neither did he foresee an indefinite stalemate.

"I can not conceive of the Korean war going on for years," he told allied newsmen. "I can conceive of the tension going on for years. But not the war."

He said United Nations fighting men "must have badly damaged" the core of the Communist-trained armies. He added there was no doubt the Chinese had hoped to push the allies out of Korea.

"What their attitude is now, I couldn't say," Marshall said.

For three and one-half days Marshall conferred with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and United Nations field commanders in Korea. He also talked today with Shigeru Yoshida, Japan's prime minister. Presumably they discussed plans for Japan's future defense.

Gives Third Statement

Before boarding his huge Constellation plane at Haneda Airport at 3:11 p. m. (12:11 a. m., EST) Marshall emphatically told newsmen for the third time on this trip:

1. His visit had nothing to do with any proposed settlement of the Korean war.

2. He had brought no new instructions to General Ridgway.

America's first five-star general said the purpose of his trip was purely military: To see the U. S. Eighth Army and study the problems of replacement and rotation.

He seemed primarily concerned with the condition of U. S. fighting men and the speed with which they could be replaced by recruits.

Marshall said that between the beginning of the Korean war and March of this year, the U. S. had to strip other units to meet the demand for manpower in Korea. Since then, however, the army has turned out enough basic infantrymen to replace Korean casualties and let battle-weary veterans go home on rotation.

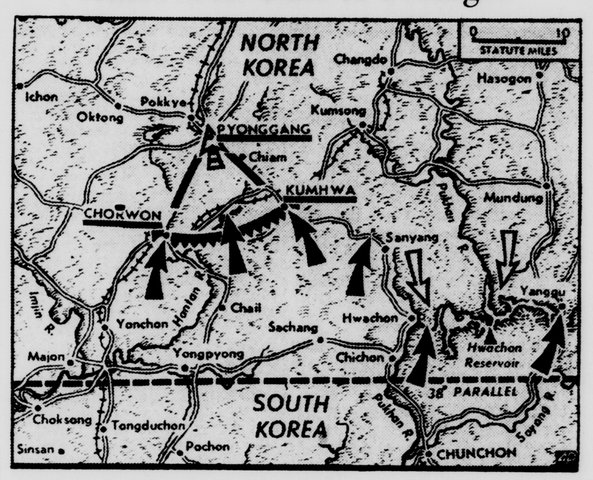

The big problem now, he said, is to find replacements for enlisted specialists and officers.

Marshall's plane will fly directly to Washington, stopping only to refuel. The route was not announced.

Dulles Begins Talks

Paris, June 11 (AP)—The State Department's Republican adviser, John Foster Dulles, began conversations today with France on a Japanese peace treaty, preparations for which are officially described as "nearing completion."

Allies Seize Base of Triangle

The U. S. First Corps seized control (saw-toothed line) of the base of the Reds' Iron Triangle on June 10. Greek, Turkish, Philippine and Thailand troops supported by strong American tank columns and artillery closed in on the two southern anchor towns of Chorwon and Kumhwa from several directions. The Red retreat was not general, as the Communists poured fresh troops into the line north of Hwachon reservoir.

Forms Prepared For Addition to City's Incinerator

Excavation for the addition to the city incinerator on Wilbur avenue has been completed and forms are being erected for the concrete base, piers and walls, it was announced today by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, president of the Board of Public Works.

The pouring of concrete will begin as soon as forms are set, probably next week.

The construction of an addition to double the capacity of the city incinerator was authorized by the Common Council to eliminate the dumping of combustible material in the Sterling street dump.

In the past, combustibles that could not be handled at the existing incinerator were placed in the dump, where they often ignited and filled the area with smoke and stench.

Ernest A. Steuding, BPW superintendent, said that excavations for the addition are 22 feet deep, which was the distance necessary to dig before reaching solid ground.

County Tax Sale Will Be Conducted

Between 300 and 400 parcels of property will be offered for sale for unpaid taxes Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the court house when County Treasurer John E. Groves holds the county tax sale.

Anyone who desires to prevent their property from being offered at the sale may pay up their tax at any time prior to the sale.

The sale will be conducted at the supervisor's room in the court house and will probably take about three hours, depending upon the number of parcels which may be withdrawn prior to the sale.

Owners of parcels of property which are sold at the sale have a year in which to redeem their property by paying the bidder 10% interest per annum from the time of the sale until the date of redemption. If the parcels are not

Banking Committees Commence Work on Controls; Climax Approaches

Washington, June 11 (AP)—President Truman's campaign for new and stronger economic controls is scheduled to reach a climactic stage this week with results still a wide-open question.

Mr. Truman has been plugging for a two-year extension of the defense production act, plus added anti-inflation powers. The act, which authorizes present economic controls, is due to expire June 30.

Apparently disturbed by what he reportedly considers lack of interest in the issue, the President will speak to the nation Thursday night in a further effort to get across his argument that inflation poses an active and immediate danger.

Meantime, House and Senate Banking Committees today begin work behind closed doors to determine the possible fate of Mr. Truman's request.

A number of congressmen have talked of giving him no more than a one-year extension of the present powers, if that much. Some lawmakers have agreed with organizations which told the committees that price and wage controls are not needed.

Asks More Power

Mr. Truman wants the law strengthened to provide new powers over prices, wages, rents and strategic materials.

Criticism of the present controls have come from farm organizations, notably cattlemen whose livestock prices have been rolled back, various business groups and some labor organizations. Generally, labor which witnesses have been supporting controls while cautioning against what they describe as too much restriction of wage increases.

Discussion of the economic control program gained intensity over the week-end after Democratic and Republican leaders met Friday with Mr. Truman and promised to hasten work on an extension bill.

The Democratic National Committee entered the campaign, urging the people to write Congress for quick action against inflation.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said on a radio program yesterday that he estimates government spending for 1953 will reach $90,000,000,000, just twice this year's outlay.

At that rate, Taft said, "I doubt very much if we can restrain inflation." He urged that "we spread our spending and go a little slower" in meeting the announced goals for defense.

Forecast Early End

Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle, speaking in Philadelphia yesterday, forecast an early end to the beef shortage and quick settlement of the meat price control problem.

In New York, Roger Fleming, secretary of the Farm Bureau Federation denied any suggestion that a "beef trust" is "striking" against the consumer by holding cattle from the market. Rather, he said, 5,000,000 "individual farmers are making up their respective minds as to whether the American people want meat or not."

In disagreeing with this view,

Russia Demands Peace Talks For All Who Fought Japanese

Moscow, June 11 (AP)—Russia demanded yesterday that all nations who fought Japan in World War 2 be invited to a peace conference in July or August. One of the countries invited would be Communist China.

The demand was included in a 19-page note handed U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk by Deputy Foreign Minister V. A. Zorin. It replied to an American note dated May 19.

The Russian note reiterated that a council of foreign ministers including Russia, the United States, Britain, France and Communist China was the proper forum for preparation of the treaty for consideration by the larger group.

The Soviets called also for signing of any peace treaty by all nations which fought Japan, rather than conclusion of separate treaties, and said all the wartime allies must participate in preparation of the treaty. Russia again rejected an American invitation to negotiate with the U. S. on the U. S.-proposed draft of the treaty.

(The U. S. on May 19 rejected treaty preparation by a ministers' council on the grounds that this would permit the Communists to delay the treaty by "miye" of the veto power. The U. S. also rejects inclusion of Red China—which she does not recognize—on the foreign ministers' council.)

(The U. S. has been circulating a draft of a proposed Japanese treaty among nations—including Russia — which fought Japan. Communist China has not been included, since the U. S. recognizes the Nationalists as the legal government of China.)

Van Fleet Announces Final Seizure on Sunday; Civilians Greet Troops

Towns Represented Vital Staging Area for Enemy

By OLEN CLEMENTS

Tokyo, June 11 (AP)—United Nations tanks rumbled into Chorwon and Kumhwa today, collapsing the Communist "iron triangle" in North Korea.

Thick carpets of mines slowed the lumbering tanks.

But Red rear guards, armed only with rifles and machineguns, faded quickly before the blasting fire of American tanks.

Infantrymen moved in with the tanks, taking over the anchors of the Reds' vaunted assembly area 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, UN ground commander, announced "final seizure" of the area Sunday evening and the climax of a bitter eight day battle.

But the two towns were not actually occupied until about midday Monday.

The Eighth Army said they were entered five minutes apart—Kumhwa at 12:55 p. m. and Chorwon at 1 p .m.

Hundreds of Korean civilians cheered the UN troops.

UN officers said the next good defense line for the Reds was 65 miles to the north. It would be based on the Pyongyang-Wonsan cross-country highway which girdles Korea just below its narrow waist.

Allies moving into Chorwon and Kumhwa also cut the road between the two points—the only other cross-country highway in the southern part of Korea.

Take Control of Roads

UN forces also seized control of roads leading northwest to the Rep capital of Pyongyang and the east coast port of Wonsan which the navy has bombarded daily for four months.

Chorwon and Kumhwa were keys to the "iron triangle" spawning ground of Communist offensives and base for the first line of defense of Red Korea.

Greek, Turkish, Philippine and Thai troops fought over the last hills opening the way to sprawling Pyonggang valley for American tanks. The flat valley lands, controlling the central Korean road network, are perfect tank territory.

Reds pulled back toward Pyongang, Apex of the triangle, 7 miles north of the parallel. They abandoned huge stacks of equipment they could not pull out.

Red resistance weakened along the front except at one place east of the Hwachon reservoir.

40,000 Are Sacrificed

They sacrificed approximately 40,000 troops in the last 10 days Van Fleet said, trying to keep the allies away from the triangle. The valley was the fountainhead of two Communist spring offensives.

U. S. Defense Secretary George C. Marshall said the Chinese "have got themselves into a difficult situation." Any peace move, he said, would have to come from the Reds.

"But they have the problem of face," he explained, "the impor-

New Attack Submarine Is to Be Equipped With Snorkel

Washington, June 11 (AP)—The first of six new attack submarines to be added to a U. S. undersea fleet will be launched next Thursday, the navy announced yesterday. Present strength of the fleet is about 85 vessels.

The new craft, the USS Trigger, is intended for long range operations. Equipped with a snorkel "breather," it has an underwater speed of more than 20 knots.

Detection equipment, armament and propulsion machinery in the new submarines are well advanced over anything used in World War II, the navy said.

But Red rear guards, armed only with rifles and machineguns, faded quickly before the blasting fire of American tanks.

Infantrymen moved in with the tanks, taking over the anchors of the Reds' vaunted assembly area 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, UN ground commander, announced "final seizure" of the area Sunday evening and the climax of a bitter eight day battle.

But the two towns were not actually occupied until about midday Monday.

The Eighth Army said they were entered five minutes apart—Kumhwa at 12:55 p. m. and Chorwon at 1 p .m.

Hundreds of Korean civilians cheered the UN troops.

UN officers said the next good defense line for the Reds was 65 miles to the north. It would be based on the Pyongyang-Wonsan cross-country highway which girdles Korea just below its narrow waist.

Allies moving into Chorwon and Kumhwa also cut the road between the two points—the only other cross-country highway in the southern part of Korea.

Take Control of Roads

UN forces also seized control of roads leading northwest to the Red capital of Pyongyang and the east coast port of Wonsan which the navy has bombarded daily for four months.

Chorwon and Kumhwa were keys to the "iron triangle" spawning ground of Communist offensives and base for the first line of defense of Red Korea.

Greek, Turkish, Philippine and Thai troops fought over the last hills opening the way to sprawling Pyonggang valley for American tanks. The flat valley lands, controlling the central Korean road network, are perfect tank territory.

Reds pulled back toward Pyonggang, Apex of the triangle, 3 miles north of the parallel. The abandoned huge stacks of equipment they could not pull out.

Red resistance weakened along the front except at one place east of the Hwachon reservoir.

40,000 Are Sacrificed

They sacrificed approximately 40,000 troops in the last 10 days Van Fleet said, trying to keep the allies away from the triangle. The valley was the fountainhead of two Communist spring offensives.

U. S. Defense Secretary George C. Marshall said the Chinese "have got themselves into a difficult situation." Any peace moves, he said, would have to come from the Reds.

"But they have the problem of face," he explained, "the impor-

Man Rescued, Fear Six Others Dead

Watched Father Slip From Grasp to His Death in Sound Waters

Fishers Island, N. Y., June 11 (AP)—Coast Guadrsmen today rescued a Meriden, Conn., man who helplessly watched his father drown late yesterday in the storm-whipped waters of Long Island Sound.

Vincent Lombardi of 509 Lewis avenue, Meriden, was found clinging to a spar from the fishing boat—"The Jack" which sank off "Consolation Rock" in the "Narrows" between Plum Island and Gull Island light at the east end of Long Island. Six persons, including a 10-year-old boy, are believed to have drowned.

A Coast Guard patrol boat rushed Lombardi to Lawrence Memorial Hospital at New London where he was reported suffering from exposure and shock.

At New London, Lombardi told a newsman he had clung to his father, Antonio "for hours" before the elder man slipped from his grasp.

Lombardi was one of three known survivors of the tragedy which occurred at 4 p. m. yesterday. No trace of the others has been found, it was said.

The other survivors are Captain "Bob" Thorsen of Brooklyn, N. Y., skipper of the craft, and a crewman identified only as "Schwartz."

These two were found aboard the mother cruiser "Cindy" of Milford, Conn., which was in distress and had to be taken in tow for New London by a Coast Guard vessel.

Damaged by Seas

Aboard the Cindy which had been badly smashed by heavy seas and had drifted helplessly most of the night, were five Milford men: Henry Beloin of 17 Morehouse avenue; Walter Simon, Jr., of 24 Morehouse avenue; Linwood Ryan, and Edward Tander, Fairwood street; and Earl Wilcox, 24 Ard street.

At Milford, it was said the five borrowed the Cindy from Samuel Blichfeldt for a Montauk fishing trip, leaving there late Friday.

They were attempting to re-

Denies Any Plan to Back Move for Chinese Coalition

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer backed Gen. Douglas MacArthur today in denials that they ever had favored a plan to bring the Chinese Communists and Nationalists together in a coalition government.

The question became a sharp issue over the week-end because of testimony Secretary of State Acheson gave last week at the Senate investigation of MacArthur's dismissal from his Far Eastern commands.

Acheson read a 1945 message from Tokyo which quoted MacArthur, Wedemeyer and Adm. Raymond Spruance as favoring steps to "bring together and to effect a compromise between the major opposing groups in order to promote a unified democratic China."

Some senators interpreted the message as meaning the three men backed an effort Gen. George C. Marshall made later to bring the Chinese Nationalists and Communists together.

Marshall, now secretary of defense, went to China that year on a special assignment from President Truman.

Calls It Incorrect

Wedemeyer, testifying at the Senate hearings, said it was "absolutely incorrect" to interpret that message as meaning the three officers favored a Nationalist-Communist coalition.

MacArthur himself said Saturday that any inference he ever favored effecting a political coalition of "such diametrically opposed and irreconcilable forces" was "a prevarication without color of factual support."

Wedemeyer took sharp issue with Acheson also on another point. He said the cabinet officer had given the inquiry committee "the erroneous impression that I not only agreed with the State Department's pessimistic views concerning the future of Formosa, but that I even suggested the possible fall of that area to the Communists," the general added:

"I have never accepted the State Department's pessimistic view with reference to the future of Formosa. I have consistently and repeatedly recommended American-supervised aid to the Chinese Nationalists government, presently located in Formosa, in order to stop the advance of Communism in the Far East."

Views Expressed in 1949

The State Department's "pessimistic views," as Wedemeyer called them, were expressed in a 1949 document circulated to its representatives abroad. This paper anticipated the fall of Formosa to the Chinese Communists.

Wedemeyer said Acheson had wrongly interpreted the Wedemeyer-Spruance-MacArthur proposals as the basis for General Marshall's 1945-46 mission to China.

(Acheson, during questioning about the message Saturday, told senators he was not interpreting the message at all—that he was simply reading it to them.)

Wedemeyer said:

"On 6 June 1951 Secretary of State Acheson testified that MacArthur - Spruance - Wedemeyer were all in agreement in the winter of 1945 with reference to future U. S. policy in China.

San Antonio Man Has Heart Attack; Was Left $600,000

Lewiston, Ill., June 11 (AP)—William F. Crothers, 73, didn't live to enjoy the $600,000 estate he inherited from an eccentric woman relative he had never seen.

Crothers, of San Antonio, Tex., collapsed and died yesterday in the lobby of the hotel where he was staying. He apparently died of a heart attack.

Saturday, Fulton county Judge Albert Scott signed an order declaring Crothers the legal heir to the estate of Mrs. Martha Waggoner, about 70, wealthy recluse who died March 26.

Crothers and Mrs. Waggoner were first cousins. Crothers testified he had heard of his relative, but never had seen her.

Bradley Returns From Europe; Is Expected to Give Report

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, returned today from a 10-day round of conferences with U. S., British and French military leaders in Europe.

The general reached National Airport at 6:55 a. m. (EST), about three hours ahead of the time he was due. His arrival was so early and unexpected there was no one on hand to meet him.

Bradley's report on his talks abroad will be the first of a series of personal studies by top defense officials from which a broad and up-to-date picture of America's global position can be assembled.

Bradley was expected to make a preliminary report during the day to President Truman and Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett.

Within the next ten days, President Truman will have available the observations and recommendations of three other Pentagon chiefs who simultaneously made high level reconnaissance missions to Europe and the Far East.

Their findings and suggestions probably will be integrated into a new, revised pattern of current and future policies. Despite their insistence that they have made the overseas trips only as military men and that no international political significance attaches to their visits, it is impossible to separate military affairs entirely from those of diplomacy.

Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, for a week has been conferring with the military chiefs of Britain and France with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the western European defense force. From them, individually and collectively, he has learned what is being done —and not done—to secure Europe against the menace of a Russian attack.

Meanwhile, the chief of the U. S. air force, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, has been checking up on the status of air power in western Europe.

The return of Secretary of Defense Marshall from his surprise journey to the Korean war front and Tokyo is expected within a day or two.

Early next week Secretary of the Air Force Finletter will come back from his trip to the Far East where, said the air force, he would inspect air "installations and activities." But the unobstrusive and inquiring Finletter has a habit of quietly looking into many things in addition to airplanes and bases when he travels abroad.

Forms Prepared For Addition to City's Incinerator

Excavation for the addition to the city incinerator on Wilbur avenue has been completed and forms are being erected for the concrete base, piers and walls, it was announced today by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, president of the Board of Public Works.

The pouring of concrete will begin as soon as forms are set, probably next week.

The construction of an addition to double the capacity of the city incinerator was authorized by the Common Council to eliminate the dumping of combustible material in the Sterling street dump.

In the past, combustibles that could not be handled at the existing incinerator were placed in the dump, where they often ignited and filled the area with smoke and stench.

Ernest A. Steuding, BPW superintendent, said that excavations for the addition are 22 feet deep, which was the distance necessary to dig before reaching solid ground.

County Tax Sale Will Be Conducted

Between 300 and 400 parcels of property will be offered for sale for unpaid taxes Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the court house when County Treasurer John E. Groves holds the county tax sale.

Anyone who desires to prevent their property from being offered at the sale may pay up their tax at any time prior to the sale.

The sale will be conducted at the supervisor's room in the court house and will probably take about three hours, depending upon the number of parcels which may be withdrawn prior to the sale.

Owners of parcels of property which are sold at the sale have a year in which to redeem their property by paying the bidder 10% interest per annum from the time of the sale until the date of redemption. If the parcels are not

Banking Committees Commence Work on Controls; Climax Approaches

Washington, June 11 (AP)—President Truman's campaign for new and stronger economic controls is scheduled to reach a climactic stage this week with results still a wide-open question.

Mr. Truman has been plugging for a two-year extension of the defense production act, plus added anti-inflation powers. The act, which authorizes present economic controls, is due to expire June 30.

Apparently disturbed by what he reportedly considers lack of interest in the issue, the President will speak to the nation Thursday night in a further effort to get across his argument that inflation poses an active and immediate danger.

Meantime, House and Senate Banking Committees today begin work behind closed doors to determine the possible fate of Mr. Truman's request.

A number of congressmen have talked of giving him no more than a one-year extension of the present powers, if that much. Some lawmakers have agreed with organizations which told the committees that price and wage controls are not needed.

Asks More Power

Mr. Truman wants the law strengthened to provide new powers over prices, wages, rents and strategic materials.

Criticism of the present controls have come from farm organizations, notably cattlemen whose livestock prices have been rolled back, various business groups and some labor organizations. Generally, labor which witnesses have been supporting controls while cautioning against what they describe as too much restriction of wage increases.

Discussion of the economic control program gained intensity over the week-end after Democratic and Republican leaders met Friday with Mr. Truman and promised to hasten work on an extension bill.

The Democratic National Committee entered the campaign, urging the people to write Congress for quick action against inflation.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said on a radio program yesterday that he estimates government spending for 1953 will reach $90,000,000,000, just twice this year's outlay.

At that rate, Taft said, "I doubt very much if we can restrain inflation." He urged that "we spread our spending and go a little slower" in meeting the announced goals for defense.

Forecast Early End

Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle, speaking in Philadelphia yesterday, forecast an early end to the beef shortage and quick settlement of the meat price control problem.

In New York, Roger Fleming, secretary of the Farm Bureau Federation denied any suggestion that a "beef trust" is "striking" against the consumer by holding cattle from the market. Rather, he said, 5,000,000 "individual farmers are making up their respective minds as to whether the American people want meat or not."

In disagreeing with this view,

Russia Demands Peace Talks For All Who Fought Japanese

Moscow, June 11 (AP)—Russia demanded yesterday that all nations who fought Japan in World War 2 be invited to a peace conference in July or August. One of the countries invited would be Communist China.

The demand was included in a 19-page note handed U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk by Deputy Foreign Minister V. A. Zorin. It replied to an American note dated May 19.

The Russian note reiterated that a council of foreign ministers including Russia, the United States, Britain, France and Communist China was the proper forum for preparation of the treaty for consideration by the larger group.

The Soviets called also for signing of any peace treaty by all nations which fought Japan, rather than conclusion of separate treaties, and said all the wartime allies must participate in preparation of the treaty. Russia again rejected an American invitation to negotiate with the U. S. on the U. S.-proposed draft of the treaty.

(The U. S. on May 19 rejected treaty preparation by a ministers' council on the grounds that this would permit the Communists to delay the treaty by "miye" of the veto power. The U. S. also rejects inclusion of Red China—which she does not recognize—on the foreign ministers' council.)

(The U. S. has been circulating a draft of a proposed Japanese treaty among nations—including Russia — which fought Japan. Communist China has not been included, since the U. S. recognizes the Nationalists as the legal government of China.)

New Attack Submarine Is to Be Equipped With Snorkel

Washington, June 11 (AP)—The first of six new attack submarines to be added to a U. S. undersea fleet will be launched next Thursday, the navy announced yesterday. Present strength of the fleet is about 85 vessels.

The new craft, the USS Trigger, is intended for long range operations. Equipped with a snorkel "breather," it has an underwater speed of more than 20 knots.

Detection equipment, armament and propulsion machinery in the new submarines are well advanced over anything used in World War II, the navy said.

Widow Will Face Questioning After Slaying Intruder

San Luis Obispo, Calif., June 11 (AP)—District Attorney Herbert Grundell virtually agreed today with wealthy Mrs. R. A. Basil Ryan that she shot a trespasser in self-defense, but said he has a few questions to clear.

"On the face of it," Grundell said, "this is a clear case of self defense. But there are some things I want to check before the inquest Tuesday."

Mrs. Ryan is the widow of a grandson of the tempestuous Thomas Fortune Ryan.

She told officers and reporters she shot Erwin Ray, 22, with a .38 revolver after he threatened her with a .22 rifle. She is building a $50,000 home on an 80-acre ranch overlooking the Pacific.

She and her foreman, Evasio Henry Poviera, related:

Ray, en route to fish, ignored no trespass signs, locked gates and fences; entered her ranch and asked Poviera for a drink of water. Poviera gave him the drink and asked him to leave. Instead, Ray continued through the ranch.

Poviera told Mrs. Ryan. She got a pistol from Poviera's cabin and followed Ray up a ranch road.

Mrs. Ryan continued:

Threatened Woman

Ray ducked into some brush and she fired one shot to frighten him out. When he reappeared, she ordered him off her ranch. He jabbed his rifle against her abdomen. She fired, hitting Ray in the chest. He staggered some 100 feet and collapsed, dead.

No charges were filed.

Grundell indicated there were no powder burns on Ray's clothing. He said he would have tests made of the fatal bullet.

The youth's mother, Mrs. Treasure Ray, said he had been having marital troubles. His wife is in Memphis, Tenn., with her 18-months-old baby.

Mrs. Ryan, a novelist, is the widow of R. A. Basil Ryan. She had lived in Mexico and Alaska since her husband's death in 1946.

Gretna Green, a small village in southern Scotland, has been a favorite haven for eloping couples from England.

Dedication Held For Seventh-Day Adventist Church

Appropriate ceremonies marking the formal dedication of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Pearl street, were held Saturday with morning and afternoon services.

Guest speaker for the morning service was E. L. Branson, of New York, president of the Greater New York Conference, whose topic was "Am I My Brother's Keeper?"

The dedicatory service began at 3 p. m. when M. D. Howard, of New York, treasurer of the New York Conference, gave the scripture reading and opening prayer. Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk made the address of welcome and Reese Jenkins, new pastor, followed with the history of the church.

During the service, Mayor Newkirk was presented with a book on "The Life of Christ."

Gives History of Church

He spoke of the start in 1904 when a group began holding Sabbath school. Later in 1929, he said a Tabernacle was constructed on Downs street where Elders W. R. Andrews and Ralls held evengelistic services. In 1940, the speaker continued, services were held in a house purchased on Smith avenue. This building was renovated to make an auditorium and it served as the church until it was sold in 1945.

The pastor added that in 1946, under the leadership of J. Paul Grove, then pastor, the lot of the present church site was purchased and the building committee was organized. Those on the committee were Mrs. E. McLain, Mrs. E. West, Charles Johnson, John Tomasson and C. LeRoy Brower, with the pastor, J. Paul Grove, acting as chairman.

After the building was constructed, through extended work by the pastor, it was consecrated October 4, 1947, with Elder Rice, who was the conference president at the time, preaching the sermon. Following this service, Pastor Grove was ordained to the gospel ministry, before leaving for Bermuda.

Debt Is Erased

Pastor Jenkins continued, "when Pastor Crosby came as pastor of the church in March, 1948, there remained an indebtedness of nearly $1,000. A definite plan was made to pay the debt in a three-year program. This was accomplished as well as the establishment of a church school in which we now offer the first eight grades of elementary schooling in a Christian environment under a Christian teacher."

The guest speaker at the afternoon service was L. E. Lenheim, of South Lancaster, Mass., president of the Atlantic Union of the Seventh-day Adventists, who spoke on "Evangelize or Fossilize."

During his talk, he pointed out that the real purpose of the church is to evangelize. He said "it must tell the world of Christ, how He came to seek and to save the lost, to save us from our sins. God's commission to the church is to 'go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.'"

In closing he said "the Seventh-day Adventist Church is founded on the belief, and observance of the seventh day Sabbath according to the creation and the Fourth Commandment and the second coming of Christ, thus the Seventh-day Adventist."

The dedicatory service was followed by the responsive reading of the act of dedication led by Pastor J. Paul Grove. During the service, there was special music, a solo by Pastor Crosby and a violin solo by Alfred Astrup, a ministerial student from Atlantic Union College, South Lancaster, Mass. E. L. Branson gave the dedicatory prayer and pronounced the benediction.

26 Persons Hurt As Train Derails

Muncie, Ind., June 11 (AP)—Twenty-six persons were injured yesterday in the derailment of 11 cars of the New York Central railroad's Knickerbocker passenger train.

All but two were released after receiving first aid.

Railroad crews worked today to restore the right of way.

A railroad spokesman said a wheel broke on the left rear truck of the second unit of the twin diesel locomotive. The unit jumped off the tracks and took the cars with it. The train was bound from New York city to St. Louis, Mo.

Traffic was rerouted over the Nickel Plate Railroad. The eastbound track was cleared for traffic last night, but the westbound track, torn up for three-quarters of a mile, remained impassable today.

Only one car overturned. It was a passenger coach four cars behind the locomotive.

'Chair Corps' Waste Probed by Senators

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Investigating senators have protested what they call "a waste of physically fit manpower" in all the armed services.

A spot check at 16 army, navy, air force and marine training centers, a Senate armed services subcommittee said last night, disclosed 95,784 enlisted men and officers in jobs or duties which non-combat personnel could fill. It referred to these men as a "chair corps."

Chairman Lyndon Johnston (D.-Tex.) of the investigating group said "these men represent a waste of physically fit manpower which this nation cannot afford."

With the backing of his subcommittee in a biting report to the Senate, he called for a sharp revision of manpower policies in the army, navy, air force and marines.

The report urged that thousands of jobs now filled by "combat" qualified" men be given to less able bodied or "limited service" men, to women in the armed services or to civilians.

Speculates King May Quit Throne Due to Illness

London, June 11 (AP)—The Sunday Pictorial speculated yesterday that ailing King George VI may "retire" in favor of Princess Elizabeth.

The 55-year-old monarch has been suffering from a "small catarrhal inflation" and from the after effects of a circulation block in his right leg.

Sources close to the court have commented recently that the King looked strained and tired.

The Pictorial's story was the first public mention of possible retirement, although the paper did not use the word "abdication."

It said:

"The king's health is now prompting the question—will he retire into private life and pass the reins of sovereignty to his daughter, Princess Elizabeth. * * *

"It would be a saddening thing to see a much-loved king step down from his throne. But it would be callous indeed to demand that he should sacrifice himself on the altar of duty."

Unable to stop he struck the rear end of the vehicle. The truck was owned by Sal Anzelone, 37, of Highland. Anzelone said he had stopped to investigate another truck which was off the highway. There were no injuries.

Naples, June 11 (AP)—An angry Charles "Lucky" Luciano today brushed off news photographers bitterly saying:

"No publicity for my great New York."

Luciano made no effort to conceal his fury over the week-end Italian police announcement he faces up to $300,000 in fines for illegal currency deals.

The former New York crime king also barked out a refusal when photographers asked to snap the swank American automobile which Italian authorities claim was illegally imported.

"A good friend of mine phoned from Rome. He asked to take pictures. I even said no to him," stormed Luciano. "No pictures, see?"

The Italian police have charged Luciano with illegally importing $57,000 (U. S.) and an American car. In a less truculent mood while interviewed at the races yesterday, he told reporters he was innocent of any wrongdoing and "necessary steps" are being taken to clear up the automobile charge.

Car, Awning Fires Are Checked Sunday

An automobile fire and a small fire in an awning on Broadway resulted in calls to the fire department Sunday afternoon.

An automobile owned and driven by O. R. Hiltebrant of Port Ewen was damaged shortly before 4 p. m. when a fire started in the iginition wires and spread through the cowling and under the dash, firemen reported. The automobile was near 42 Smith avenue when the fire broke out.

A "carelessly tossed cigarette" was listed as probable cause of a fire which burned an eight-inch hole in the awning of the A. H. Gildersleeve and Son building at 613 Broadway Sunday at 1:40 p. m., Deputy Fire Chief James Brett reported.

Aerial Enters Service

New York, June 11 (AP)—The new $1,000,000, 222-foot television aerial atop the 102-story Empire State Building was placed in service today by the National Broadcasting Company's station WNBT (Channel 4). The station signed on the air after a test pattern at 7:30 a. m. (EST) and followed two hours later with a broadcast. The formal opening program, however, is scheduled to originate from studios on the 86th floor of the building at 5:30 p. m. (EST) today. The aerial is expected to give WNBT more effective coverage over a radius of 50 to 60 miles or more.

Murphy, Medina Named

Washington, June 11 (AP)—The man who prosecuted Alger Hiss was nominated today for a federal judgeship and the judge who presided at the long trial of the 11 top Communist leaders was given an advancement. President Truman named Thomas F. Murphy, now New York's police commissioner, to be a federal judge for the southern district of New York. At the same time, he sent to the Senate for its approval the nomination of Judge Harold R. Medina for promotion to the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit (New York).

Records Made Available

New York, June 11 (AP)—All records of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee have been made available to the State Crime Commission, it was learned today. A commission spokesman declined to say if upstate New York cities, other than Saratoga, would be investigated on the basis of the Senate reports. State Crime Commission officials are working in some upstate cities, but a spokesman declined to discuss the work or the municipalities involved.

Opening Postponed

The official opening of D.-D.'s Kiddie-land Express Railroad on Route 9-W north of Kingston, which was scheduled for this evening, will be postponed until Thursday due to a delay in arrival of the train. The train is being shipped to Kingston by truck and difficulty was encountered en route. It is expected the train will arrive today or Tuesday and be ready for the official opening Thursday.

Is Made Bishop

Rome, June 11 (AP)—Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, auxiliary of Francis Cardinal Spellman, was consecrated bishop today in Rome's St. John and St. Paul Church. The church is Cardinal Spellman's titular church, assigned to him when he was made cardinal in 1946. Msgr. Sheen was named auxiliary bishop to Cardinal Spellman last month and at the same time titular bishop of Cesariana.

Delay Is Granted

New York, June 11 (AP)—General Sessions Judge Louis Capozzoli adjourned today until June 21 the pleading by eight persons allegedly involved in a $500,000-a-year abortion mill. The delay was granted with the consent of the office of District Attorney Frank S. Hogan and counsel for the defendants.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 11 (AP)—After a hesitant start, the stock market today pushed higher.

Demand for oils, particularly for Standard Oil (NJ), started the ball rolling. That sentiment spread gradually to other areas such as steels, chemicals, air lines, aircrafts, and some motors and rubbers.

Standard, which is stacking up a highly favorable earnings record, was up as much as $3 a share at times.

Also in the same price bracket was American Cyanamid, a favorite investment demand.

Railroads were almost completely neglected by traders. Many held unchanged from one hour to the next. Chesapeake & Ohio, a leading coal carrier, sagged.

Aluminum Co. of America, newly listed today on the stock exchange after more than a quarter of a century on the Curb Exchange, started out a fraction lower and then improved slightly.

tance of which is hard for us to understand."

Marshall said he couldn't "conceive of the Korean war going on for years" nor could he see a quick end to it.

The secretary's comments were made as he ended a surprise three-and-a-half day visit to Tokyo and the Korean front. He reiterated his visit involved neither peace moves nor new instructions to the allied command.

As Chinese pulled out of the triangle, 72 F-48 Thunderjets plastered the Sonchon supply area to the north in one of their heaviest raids of the war.

Pilots reported they flattened 400 buildings and wrecked other military targets with jellied gasoline, bombs, rockets and machine-gun fire.

The area they hit includes the junction of the western Korea rail and highway routes with those leading across the Isthmus to the east coast, easiest withdrawal point for Reds evacuating the triangle.

Other warplanes raided eight Red air fields. Altogether 900 sorties were mounted by UN air forces Sunday through clouds and showers.

Cruiser Shells Target

On the east coast the U. S. heavy cruiser Helena fired her 10,000th shell at Red targets in Korea Sunday. With the destroyers Bradford and Cunningham the Helena kept up a three day round-the-clock bombardment of the Songjin area, 185 miles north of the 38th Parallel. They fired more than 1,000 rounds.

On the ground Red opposition weakened except for one small sector on the east-central front, and along the western flank to the rear of the front.

Meanwhile allied infantrymen pushed UN lines to the southern edge of the city, and other patrols combed the area on each side of the town.

Back of these forces allied troops dug into the hills, in some places occupying bunkers out of which they had flushed the Chinese.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter said they were forming a "new UN defense line." Patrols moving out from this line, southwest of Chorwon, found few Reds left in the hills.

Officers said Chinese withdrawing toward Kumsong, about 12 miles northeast of Kumhwa, were expected to reorganize to harass advancing UN forces.

The Reds have abandoned sufficient supplies to equip three of their divisions, Van Fleet said.

Abandoned caches are so big and numerous that allies can't keep up with the count. An eighth army spokesman said the total captured by the allies will double when the count for the first week of June is in.

Grange News

Hurley Juvenile Grange

At the last meeting of the Hurley Juvenile Grange 35 members had a picnic lunch at the Hurley Reformed Church. During the afternoon the boys and girls aged 10 through 14 worked on the landscaping project on the bank by the church. Brush and weeds were cleaned away and leaves were raked. A load of stones was placed on the bank to retard erosion, and various kinds of flowers were planted. The age group from five to 10 years worked on soap carving and sewing of picture post card boxes. The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday in the church basement after school. Children who have sewing cards are asked to bring them to the meeting.

Hurley Grange

A regular meeting of Hurley Grange No. 963 will be held Tuesday evening in the basement of the Hurley Reformed Church at 8:30 p. m. Moving pictures will be shown.

Asbury Pays Visit

Thirty-five members of Asbury Grange made the trip to New Paltz June 5 to visit the Huguenot Grange and to provide the evening's entertainment. The program included an exhibition of hobby materials made by the Asbury members and opened with a reading by Mrs. Ethel Bishop urging that everyone should have a hobby of some sort. Fancy crochet work, showing pillows, napkins, towels, tablecloths and the like, made by Mrs. Anna Zschemisch, was displayed and explained. Mrs. Louise Saile then spoke on her hobby of collecting and repairing antique chairs, two of which she had brought along, and also displayed framed pressed flowers, hand-hammered copper sheets, aluminum trays, etc., which she had made. Otto Trnka exhibited two still-life canvases, painted in his spare time and was followed by a history of U. S. coins by Mrs. Blanche Cotton, who displayed her large collection of same. Horton Pearson showed his collection of hand-painted ties followed by Mr. Carl with his hundreds of fireman and other medals and badges dating from the middle 19th century.

Mrs. Maarcks brought two canaries in a breeding cage and spoke at length on the proper breeding of canaries and the raising of same as a hobby.

After an intermission, the "Asbury Rockettes," under direction of Mrs. Mary Relyea, put on a song and dance routine with Mrs. Jane Simon acting as the "star" and Mrs. Ethel Bishop as the "soubrette," with the usual "rockette" line composed of six of the Asbury ladies dressed in period costumes. The evening's entertainment concluded with a program by the Asbury Service and Hospitality Committee, headed by Mrs. Minna June, who read a poem after which Otto Trnka staged a sketch called "The Hobo's Inspiration" in which he made various pictures on velvet cloth panel, out of old rags. Some beautiful scenes resulted. H. Bungarz acted as master of ceremonies throughout.

Car Takes Plunge

New York, June 11 (AP)—An automobile plunged through a guard rail of the 149th street drawbridge early today and tumbled 50 feet into the Harlem river. A police launch began a search for the car and its occupants. Police said the car sheared off about 10 feet of the four-foot-high guard railing, hit the wooden piling on which the bridge pivots when it opens, and went into the water on the downstream side. A motorist, Herman Dunn of the Bronx, said he saw the car ahead of him, a recent model sedan, plunge through the railing at about 30 miles per hour. Dunn said it appeared to be occupied only by its driver.

The 20 or more arrangements she made were designed for use in the home rather than for flower shows. Mrs. Rockwell included the making of corsages in her demonstration.

Employers Invited To Tax Law Meeting

All employers under the provisions of the State unemployment insurance tax law were urged today to attend the special meeting Wednesday at 7:45 p. m., in the Governor Clinton Hotel by Lawrence J. MacAvery, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. The new law, which permits a direct saving to employers, with a good employment record, will be explained by William A. Mills, executive vice president of the Empire State Association of Commerce and Robert N. Purcell, regional director of the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance.

There have been several major changes in the new law. The payments to qualified recipients has been increased to $30 per week, but a separate tax rate will be established for each employer. MacAvery stated that every employer who pays the tax should be represented at the Wednesday meeting because forms and material will be distributed which will be of direct assistance in becoming familiar with the provisions of the new law.

Flowers for the Teacher

When June arrives each passing year
Bouquets are cut by busy hands
And each one marks a souvenir
Designed for mem'ry's golden strands.
Each passing June the teachers smile
And whisper thanks for budding flowers
As time has stepped another mile
That we can call no longer ours.

The youngsters race thru' priceless days
And laugh at years that hurry by
Accepting life in every phase
As flowers of childhood fade and die.
Bouquets that make the classroom bright
Must bloom and be forever gone
As time and youth in tireless flight
Seek beauty in tomorrow's dawn.

Today is sweet . . . if they but knew . . .
Yet like the flowers, so fresh and cool
They briefly hold the rainbow's hue
And spend their wealth . . . in days at school.

Widow Will Face Questioning After Slaying Intruder

San Luis Obispo, Calif., June 11 (AP)—District Attorney Herbert Grundell virtually agreed today with wealthy Mrs. R. A. Basil Ryan that she shot a trespasser in self-defense, but said he has a few questions to clear.

"On the face of it," Grundell said, "this is a clear case of self defense. But there are some things I want to check before the inquest Tuesday."

Mrs. Ryan is the widow of a grandson of the tempestuous Thomas Fortune Ryan.

She told officers and reporters she shot Erwin Ray, 22, with a .38 revolver after he threatened her with a .22 rifle. She is building a $50,000 home on an 80-acre ranch overlooking the Pacific.

She and her foreman, Evasio Henry Poviera, related:

Ray, en route to fish, ignored no trespass signs, locked gates and fences; entered her ranch and asked Poviera for a drink of water. Poviera gave him the drink and asked him to leave. Instead, Ray continued through the ranch.

Poviera told Mrs. Ryan. She got a pistol from Poviera's cabin and followed Ray up a ranch road.

Mrs. Ryan continued:

Threatened Woman

Ray ducked into some brush and she fired one shot to frighten him out. When he reappeared, she ordered him off her ranch. He jabbed his rifle against her abdomen. She fired, hitting Ray in the chest. He staggered some 100 feet and collapsed, dead.

No charges were filed.

Grundell indicated there were no powder burns on Ray's clothing. He said he would have tests made of the fatal bullet.

The youth's mother, Mrs. Treasure Ray, said he had been having marital troubles. His wife is in Memphis, Tenn., with her 18-months-old baby.

Mrs. Ryan, a novelist, is the widow of R. A. Basil Ryan. She had lived in Mexico and Alaska since her husband's death in 1946.

Gretna Green, a small village in southern Scotland, has been a favorite haven for eloping couples from England.

Dedication Held For Seventh-Day Adventist Church

Appropriate ceremonies marking the formal dedication of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Pearl street, were held Saturday with morning and afternoon services.

Guest speaker for the morning service was E. L. Branson, of New York, president of the Greater New York Conference, whose topic was "Am I My Brother's Keeper?"

The dedicatory service began at 3 p. m. when M. D. Howard, of New York, treasurer of the New York Conference, gave the scripture reading and opening prayer. Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk made the address of welcome and Reese Jenkins, new pastor, followed with the history of the church.

During the service, Mayor Newkirk was presented with a book on "The Life of Christ."

Gives History of Church

He spoke of the start in 1904 when a group began holding Sabbath school. Later in 1929, he said a Tabernacle was constructed on Downs street where Elders W. R. Andrews and Ralls held evengelistic services. In 1940, the speaker continued, services were held in a house purchased on Smith avenue. This building was renovated to make an auditorium and it served as the church until it was sold in 1945.

The pastor added that in 1946, under the leadership of J. Paul Grove, then pastor, the lot of the present church site was purchased and the building committee was organized. Those on the committee were Mrs. E. McLain, Mrs. E. West, Charles Johnson, John Tomasson and C. LeRoy Brower, with the pastor, J. Paul Grove, acting as chairman.

After the building was constructed, through extended work by the pastor, it was consecrated October 4, 1947, with Elder Rice, who was the conference president at the time, preaching the sermon. Following this service, Pastor Grove was ordained to the gospel ministry, before leaving for Bermuda.

Debt Is Erased

Pastor Jenkins continued, "when Pastor Crosby came as pastor of the church in March, 1948, there remained an indebtedness of nearly $1,000. A definite plan was made to pay the debt in a three-year program. This was accomplished as well as the establishment of a church school in which we now offer the first eight grades of elementary schooling in a Christian environment under a Christian teacher."

The guest speaker at the afternoon service was L. E. Lenheim, of South Lancaster, Mass., president of the Atlantic Union of the Seventh-day Adventists, who spoke on "Evangelize or Fossilize."

During his talk, he pointed out that the real purpose of the church is to evangelize. He said "it must tell the world of Christ, how He came to seek and to save the lost, to save us from our sins. God's commission to the church is to 'go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.'"

In closing he said "the Seventh-day Adventist Church is founded on the belief, and observance of the seventh day Sabbath according to the creation and the Fourth Commandment and the second coming of Christ, thus the Seventh-day Adventist."

The dedicatory service was followed by the responsive reading of the act of dedication led by Pastor J. Paul Grove. During the service, there was special music, a solo by Pastor Crosby and a violin solo by Alfred Astrup, a ministerial student from Atlantic Union College, South Lancaster, Mass. E. L. Branson gave the dedicatory prayer and pronounced the benediction.

26 Persons Hurt As Train Derails

Muncie, Ind., June 11 (AP)—Twenty-six persons were injured yesterday in the derailment of 11 cars of the New York Central railroad's Knickerbocker passenger train.

All but two were released after receiving first aid.

Railroad crews worked today to restore the right of way.

A railroad spokesman said a wheel broke on the left rear truck of the second unit of the twin diesel locomotive. The unit jumped off the tracks and took the cars with it. The train was bound from New York city to St. Louis, Mo.

Traffic was rerouted over the Nickel Plate Railroad. The eastbound track was cleared for traffic last night, but the westbound track, torn up for three-quarters of a mile, remained impassable today.

Only one car overturned. It was a passenger coach four cars behind the locomotive.

'Chair Corps' Waste Probed by Senators

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Investigating senators have protested what they call "a waste of physically fit manpower" in all the armed services.

A spot check at 16 army, navy, air force and marine training centers, a Senate armed services subcommittee said last night, disclosed 95,784 enlisted men and officers in jobs or duties which non-combat personnel could fill. It referred to these men as a "chair corps."

Chairman Lyndon Johnston (D.-Tex.) of the investigating group said "these men represent a waste of physically fit manpower which this nation cannot afford."

With the backing of his subcommittee in a biting report to the Senate, he called for a sharp revision of manpower policies in the army, navy, air force and marines.

The report urged that thousands of jobs now filled by "combat" qualified" men be given to less able bodied or "limited service" men, to women in the armed services or to civilians.

Speculates King May Quit Throne Due to Illness

London, June 11 (AP)—The Sunday Pictorial speculated yesterday that ailing King George VI may "retire" in favor of Princess Elizabeth.

The 55-year-old monarch has been suffering from a "small catarrhal inflation" and from the after effects of a circulation block in his right leg.

Sources close to the court have commented recently that the King looked strained and tired.

The Pictorial's story was the first public mention of possible retirement, although the paper did not use the word "abdication."

It said:

"The king's health is now prompting the question—will he retire into private life and pass the reins of sovereignty to his daughter, Princess Elizabeth. * * *

"It would be a saddening thing to see a much-loved king step down from his throne. But it would be callous indeed to demand that he should sacrifice himself on the altar of duty."

Cook, 50, of 401 Broad street, Philadelphia, Pa., was badly damaged about the front when it struck a parked truck on Route 209 Friday near the intersection of the Napanoch road. Luciano Brushes Off Photogs After Arrest

Naples, June 11 (AP)—An angry Charles "Lucky" Luciano today brushed off news photographers bitterly saying:

"No publicity for my great New York."

Luciano made no effort to conceal his fury over the week-end Italian police announcement he faces up to $300,000 in fines for illegal currency deals.

The former New York crime king also barked out a refusal when photographers asked to snap the swank American automobile which Italian authorities claim was illegally imported.

"A good friend of mine phoned from Rome. He asked to take pictures. I even said no to him," stormed Luciano. "No pictures, see?"

The Italian police have charged Luciano with illegally importing $57,000 (U. S.) and an American car. In a less truculent mood while interviewed at the races yesterday, he told reporters he was innocent of any wrongdoing and "necessary steps" are being taken to clear up the automobile charge.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 11 (AP)—After a hesitant start, the stock market today pushed higher.

Demand for oils, particularly for Standard Oil (NJ), started the ball rolling. That sentiment spread gradually to other areas such as steels, chemicals, air lines, aircrafts, and some motors and rubbers.

Standard, which is stacking up a highly favorable earnings record, was up as much as $3 a share at times.

Also in the same price bracket was American Cyanamid, a favorite investment demand.

Railroads were almost completely neglected by traders. Many held unchanged from one hour to the next. Chesapeake & Ohio, a leading coal carrier, sagged.

Aluminum Co. of America, newly listed today on the stock exchange after more than a quarter of a century on the Curb Exchange, started out a fraction lower and then improved slightly.

tance of which is hard for us to understand."

Marshall said he couldn't "conceive of the Korean war going on for years" nor could he see a quick end to it.

The secretary's comments were made as he ended a surprise three-and-a-half day visit to Tokyo and the Korean front. He reiterated his visit involved neither peace moves nor new instructions to the allied command.

As Chinese pulled out of the triangle, 72 F-48 Thunderjets plastered the Sonchon supply area to the north in one of their heaviest raids of the war.

Pilots reported they flattened 400 buildings and wrecked other military targets with jellied gasoline, bombs, rockets and machine-gun fire.

The area they hit includes the junction of the western Korea rail and highway routes with those leading across the Isthmus to the east coast, easiest withdrawal point for Reds evacuating the triangle.

Other warplanes raided eight Red air fields. Altogether 900 sorties were mounted by UN air forces Sunday through clouds and showers.

Cruiser Shells Target

On the east coast the U. S. heavy cruiser Helena fired her 10,000th shell at Red targets in Korea Sunday. With the destroyers Bradford and Cunningham the Helena kept up a three day round-the-clock bombardment of the Songjin area, 185 miles north of the 38th Parallel. They fired more than 1,000 rounds.

On the ground Red opposition weakened except for one small sector on the east-central front, and along the western flank to the rear of the front.

Meanwhile allied infantrymen pushed UN lines to the southern edge of the city, and other patrols combed the area on each side of the town.

Back of these forces allied troops dug into the hills, in some places occupying bunkers out of which they had flushed the Chinese.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter said they were forming a "new UN defense line." Patrols moving out from this line, southwest of Chorwon, found few Reds left in the hills.

Officers said Chinese withdrawing toward Kumsong, about 12 miles northeast of Kumhwa, were expected to reorganize to harass advancing UN forces.

The Reds have abandoned sufficient supplies to equip three of their divisions, Van Fleet said.

Abandoned caches are so big and numerous that allies can't keep up with the count. An eighth army spokesman said the total captured by the allies will double when the count for the first week of June is in.

Grange News

Hurley Juvenile Grange

At the last meeting of the Hurley Juvenile Grange 35 members had a picnic lunch at the Hurley Reformed Church. During the afternoon the boys and girls aged 10 through 14 worked on the landscaping project on the bank by the church. Brush and weeds were cleaned away and leaves were raked. A load of stones was placed on the bank to retard erosion, and various kinds of flowers were planted. The age group from five to 10 years worked on soap carving and sewing of picture post card boxes. The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday in the church basement after school. Children who have sewing cards are asked to bring them to the meeting.

Asbury Pays Visit

Thirty-five members of Asbury Grange made the trip to New Paltz June 5 to visit the Huguenot Grange and to provide the evening's entertainment. The program included an exhibition of hobby materials made by the Asbury members and opened with a reading by Mrs. Ethel Bishop urging that everyone should have a hobby of some sort. Fancy crochet work, showing pillows, napkins, towels, tablecloths and the like, made by Mrs. Anna Zschemisch, was displayed and explained. Mrs. Louise Saile then spoke on her hobby of collecting and repairing antique chairs, two of which she had brought along, and also displayed framed pressed flowers, hand-hammered copper sheets, aluminum trays, etc., which she had made. Otto Trnka exhibited two still-life canvases, painted in his spare time and was followed by a history of U. S. coins by Mrs. Blanche Cotton, who displayed her large collection of same. Horton Pearson showed his collection of hand-painted ties followed by Mr. Carl with his hundreds of fireman and other medals and badges dating from the middle 19th century.

Mrs. Maarcks brought two canaries in a breeding cage and spoke at length on the proper breeding of canaries and the raising of same as a hobby.

After an intermission, the "Asbury Rockettes," under direction of Mrs. Mary Relyea, put on a song and dance routine with Mrs. Jane Simon acting as the "star" and Mrs. Ethel Bishop as the "soubrette," with the usual "rockette" line composed of six of the Asbury ladies dressed in period costumes. The evening's entertainment concluded with a program by the Asbury Service and Hospitality Committee, headed by Mrs. Minna June, who read a poem after which Otto Trnka staged a sketch called "The Hobo's Inspiration" in which he made various pictures on velvet cloth panel, out of old rags. Some beautiful scenes resulted. H. Bungarz acted as master of ceremonies throughout.

Car Takes Plunge

New York, June 11 (AP)—An automobile plunged through a guard rail of the 149th street drawbridge early today and tumbled 50 feet into the Harlem river. A police launch began a search for the car and its occupants. Police said the car sheared off about 10 feet of the four-foot-high guard railing, hit the wooden piling on which the bridge pivots when it opens, and went into the water on the downstream side. A motorist, Herman Dunn of the Bronx, said he saw the car ahead of him, a recent model sedan, plunge through the railing at about 30 miles per hour. Dunn said it appeared to be occupied only by its driver.

The 20 or more arrangements she made were designed for use in the home rather than for flower shows. Mrs. Rockwell included the making of corsages in her demonstration.

Next Comes Pop's Day

By FRANK TRIPP

It was a long time after the first Mother's Day before a day was set aside for pop. There was a banana week and an umbrella week years before the old boy got even a day. Then they gave him a Sunday, instead of one when he could knock off work.

Adam was smart when he made a female out of one of his ribs. He got his woman easy compared to some of his posterity. Ever since Eden, man has been after woman, though he was there first, didn't eat the apple and didn't do a lot of things that he gets blamed for. So our pops deserve a day.

My pop was a honey; long on silence, appetite and horse sense. When I quit school and got a job on a newspaper he said to me, "Okay, but how are you going to make a living?" Even 20 years later, after I'd proved that I could, he'd read my stuff and declare, "Barnum was right." I'm glad he wasn't an editor.

He was a smart old fellow, 40 years older than I, but I caught up to him—within one day. He could tell in the morning what kind of a day it would be. That same night I could tell what kind of a day it was.

He always had the Indian sign on me by at least one day, which is all you need to lock even Wall Street. I guess that's why every son has a special kind of affection for his dad.

IT'S SWELL to give pop a break now and then. He gets pushed around an awful lot. When the child is born he gets laughed at and is taunted by the hard-hearted sawbones with the bromide that he never lost a father yet.

All the way along the kid's trek from the cradle to the altar, pop's role is as far in the background as a scene shifter's. He flashes into prominence the tenth of each month, under a shower of bills; then holes up till the next tenth trying to get even.

If he stops by a canteen on his way home and spends a dime for a scuttle of suds he feels like he's robbing his children. When he buys a new suit he thinks how much more his family needs it. When he can't afford to go to the fight he stays home and can't hear it over the radio, 'cause the house is full of kids dancing to St. Louis Blues.

He tries the kitchen as a retreat, gets nicely settled with his evening paper when the mob whirls in to crash the refrigerator. What's left of the chicken that was to be tomorrow's lunch, ends up a carcass that wouldn't flavor a night club jigger of chicken scup.

SO THE OLD BOY goes to bed. He's off to a good night's sleep when the gang downstairs decides to go home. The whole neighborhood is let in on the event, what with the shouted good nights, though it's nearer morning, and the invitations for the next night's raid on some other poor guy's domicile.

One of their cars won't start and there comes a meek voice from closer by. Mother sits up in bed and says, "Tom, are you awake?"

"Am I awake? What do you think? I couldn't be awaker if I was in the middle of MacArthur's welcome."

"Then get up and help the children."

That burns him up. The "children" part of it is what gets his goat. When will they grow up, he ponders. He decides never, pulls on his pants and goes to the rescue.

Life seems to Tom to be just one rescue after another and he wonders who's going to rescue him if things don't ease up.

Oh well, dads don't want to be slobbered over. They don't expect any demonstration; but it'll do your pop good for weeks if somebody around the house just remembers to say that he's not a bad egg after all.

BARGAIN BASEMENT DERBIES

The price war in New York has served to whet the appetites of bargain-hungry customers everywhere. Even the most optimistic persons have little hope that the drastic price reductions will be more than temporary but the idea of any price cuts is enough to cause smiles of pleasure.

One solution which might permit indefinite continuation of the sales without great net loss to the merchants might lie in an appeal to the American love for spectator sports. Bargain days could be promoted in the same manner as football, baseball or boxing, with bleachers and grandstands erected around the shopping area. Gate receipts could defray the profit lost in reducing prices and assure the businessman of a fair overall profit. The idea might provide sports fans with more action than they have witnessed in some other arenas in recent years.

The possibilities are endless. Any hapless man who has ventured into a crowd of bargain-seeking women knows that only the well condition should compete in this arena. Shoppers could be garbed in distinctive uniforms to allow easy recognition of individuals from the stands. Outstanding shoppers from regularly scheduled weekly sales could be made eligible to participate in a gigantic annual sale which would correspond to baseball's World Series.

This fantasy may seem too ridiculous to be taken seriously. But any idea that proposes lowering prices while completely satisfying all segments of the population is ridiculous. At a time of dangerous inflation only cool unselfish thinking can provide any hope of a good solution.

REVIVING NAZISM

A formidable showing for a new Nazi party is reported in Germany. A recent election gave 366,000 votes to the Socialist Reich party, whose platform resembles many features of the Hitler regime. Religious and racial persecution, however, are not planned, says the leader, Count Westarp. His name recalls the Count Westarp who was a strong jingo and advocate of "Deutschland Uber Alles" in the days of Kaiser Wilhelm II.

While it is disturbing to find that so many Germans still defy world sentiment, it is not unnatural. During the early days of the war the Germans lived on the food and other valuables stolen from the conquered countries of Europe. Anyone would be well off under such circumstances. No wonder that the lament is heard, "It was better under Hitler." A free press might have told them where their food was coming from. Under Hitler they were kept in the dark about everything he did not want them to know. The real occasion for surprise is perhaps that the vote for Nazism was not greater.

FINDING FAULT

Finding fault with things as they are is not in itself a bad thing. The great reformers of the world found fault with conditions as they were and moved boldly to correct them. A desire to attain perfection and a tendency to be critical of anything less can motivate men to mighty accomplishments. But fault-finding done for its own sake is distasteful and useless.

It is easy to be critical of the work of others. Man is human and will make mistakes. It is not so easy to remember this and to make allowances for imperfections which are outweighed by the good accomplished. Too often the person who is hypercritical is too busy complaining and criticizing to offer any constructive suggestions to remedy the things about which he complains.

PING-PONG A LA RUSSE

One way to get rid of war, said the philosopher William James, is to substitute some other outlet for the combative instincts. On this principle Americans should welcome the news from Russia that the All-Union Physical Culture Commission has ordered Russians to take up table tennis on a mass scale.

This is doubtless the least alarming news to come out of Russia in a long time. The development of competition in sports should foster individual judgment and broaden contact with outside groups. From this standpoint the growth of so mild a sport as table tennis is to be welcomed. It might help.

Probably few of us will rate an epitaph as victorious or as final as the one on a wooden stick at a grave in Normandy, which reads: "In memory of Maggie, a mule, who in her lifetime kicked one colonel, one major, three lieutenants, eleven sergeants, sixty-seven privates and one bomb."

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

MALTZ VS. DMYTRYK

Albert Maltz and Edward Dmytryk were of the notorious Hollywood Ten who went to jail rather than say yes or no to being members of the Communist Party, which we now know most of them were by collateral testimony. Maltz chooses to remain a Communist and is publicly so in the affairs of the party. Dmytryk testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities that he once was a Communist but now is no more.

Now along comes Maltz and says Dmytryk is not sincere of heart. In a two-page spread in "The Hollywood Reporter," Maltz publishes an open letter to "The Saturday Evening Post" in which he does a complete hatchet job on his former pal.

The point at issue is that Dmytryk claims he ceased to be a Communist in 1945. Maltz asks:

". . . If Dmytryk at last, and finally, learned that he had been associated with a group of malevolent scoundrels whom he now repudiated—then let me ask further: Why did his wife continue to function publicly as a member of the Committee of the Wives of the Hollywood Ten? Why also did his wife join mine in August, 1950, in appearing in Sacramento, Calif., before the platform committees of the Democratic and Republican Parties and before the convention of the Progressive Party, to ask all three parties to include a statement on the case of the Hollywood Ten in their platform on civil liberties? And why, at the end of August, did Mrs. Dmytryk join my wife in a common visit to prison? Why did they sleep in the same hotel room, hire a car together, travel 120 miles from Charleston to Mill Point, W. Va., visit, remain over night and travel back together? The prison records show they were together and 20 officers and inmates will testify to it."

Maltz was Dmytryk's best man at the latter's marriage to Jean Porter on May 12, 1948, which was three years after Dmytryk said he ceased to be a Communist. So Maltz wants to know how that happened, which, of course, to ordinary people should mean nothing, for cannot men be friends who differ politically? He even intimates that Dmytryk is a Communist who has gone underground for the duration.

Now, I do not want to get into the row between these pals. The House Committee on Un-American Activities ought to have Albert Maltz down to Washington to testify as to this letter. Let the Communists tell their own story in their own way.

But what is serious about all this is that motion pictures and television need to be freed not only from Communist influence but from the reputation of being dominated by Communists and their friends. These industries have been and can be useful to the country not only as amusement and entertainment but as a creative force in mass education.

That makes Hollywood a serious place, one that needs to be watched and studied. Little children get many ideas from the movies and from television; they get them at so early an age that they remain as character-forming phases of the child's life. For instance, such characters as Roy Rogers and Hopalong Cassidy are substantial forces in the development of national ideals. This must not be regarded as far-fetched, because contact with children in any large numbers will establish the correctness of the view.

Furthermore, we face a critical moral situation in this country which involves the re-education of an entire nation. In that re-education, the motion picture industry and the television industry must play as great a role as the school and the college. Traitors at heart and cheap personalities will not do that job for America.

The assumption that Hollywood is made up of the shameless creatures who publicize their vices is false. When one digs through the heap of dirt that has been publicized, it is not difficult to find serious-minded, healthy-thinking Americans who work in the right direction. I call attention to the members of the Motion Picture Alliance who have risked their careers to fight for America.

The work of the House Committee on Un-American Activities has been invaluable in the cleansing of Hollywood which must now include television. But it is essential for the public to make a distinction between such creatures as the Hollywood Ten and the fine men and women of the Motion Picture Alliance.

RICE DIET TO LOWER BLOOD PRESSURE

It is known that, in general, Chinese people living in China have lower blood pressure than do United States and Canadian people living in America. It is also known that when Chinese live in America for some time their blood pressure rises; similarly Americans living in China for some time have a gradual lowering of their blood pressure.

This raising and lowering of the blood pressure, according to where one lives, has always been attributed to the fact that the Chinese as a race have always lived at a less rapid rate than we do here. While it is admitted that the quiet life of the Chinese is a big factor in causing lower blood pressure, our research workers are telling us that it is because the Chinese make rice their principal food that causes their pressure to remain low. Other research workers state that it is the low or small amount of salt in what is known as the "rice diet" that is responsible for the decrease in the blood pressure and decrease in weight in those who are overweight.

The rice diet, if strictly followed, will lower the blood pressure temporarily, yet physicians know that following the rice diet is difficult and may cause weakness. A report on the rice diet is therefore worth studying.

In The American Journal of Medicine, New York, Drs. D. M. Watkin, H. F. Froeb, F. T. Hatch and A. B. Gulman record the effects of hospitalization on 86 patients with high blood pressure who were given a regular diet to get their lowest or base-line pressure. Fifty of these patients in whom the base or lowest pressure (on a regular diet for ten weeks) had been found were then put on the rice diet for ten weeks. The results were encouraging as the blood pressure was reduced. However, it was found that cutting down on table salt (sodium chloride) and other foods rich in sodium lowered the blood pressure by about the same amount as did the rice diet.

I am repeating the above facts for my readers because following the strict rice diet imposes such hardship on the patient and so much difficulty in control as to make it impractical for general use.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — The beer barons are now hustling around the capital pulling all sorts of wires to prevent beer from being sold in bottles. They want their beer in tin cans, despite the fact that the National Production Authority is clamping down on the unnecessary use of tin, now one of the scarce metals badly needed for mobilization.

Botatles, on the other hand, are not scarce. Despite this, the brewing companies are howling to high heaven against using them.

Oddly enough, the champion of the breweries is GOP Sen. Hugh Butler of Omaha, Neb.—which is a long way from Milwaukee, Wis., the beer capital. Butler has bombarded NPA with sizzling letters and has even made personal trips to NPA headquarters on behalf of the brewing companies.

His latest letter angrily denounces the "pressure" against tin for beer cans and demands that NPA notify him before taking any action in favor of bottled beer. What Butler may not know, however, is that the "pressure" is coming from right under his nose in the Senate. Texas Sen. Lyndon Johnson's alert watchdog committee does not consider beer cans essential to the national defense and has urged a return to bottles.

Note — Butler's home state of Nebraska has only two small brewing companies — Storz and Metz. The Nebraska Senator has been under pressure from Storz but hasn't even heard from Metz. In spite of his emphasis on beer cans, Butler explained to this column that his fight is for tin for the entire canning industry.

Gen. Collins Criticizes

It may mean a shake-up in army training, but Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, was critical of U. S. Army maneuvers in west Germany last week. After watching crack army combat units in mock battle near Grafenwohr, Collins called for more stress on firepower, less on manpower.

The units had been practicing frontal attacks and bayonet charges, which run up the casualty list as the Chinese have learned in Korea. Instead, Collins recommended that the troops deploy to high ground and concentrate on firepower. He pointed out that America can spare artillery fire, but not men. Collins also suggested that the air force work closer with ground troops in actual training in order to improve tactical air support.

Maryland Conviction

It was no accident that Jon Jonkel, the Chicago Tribune friend - campaign - manager for GOP Sen. John Butler in Maryland, pleaded guilty to violating the Corrupt Practices Act and paid his $5,000 fine within about 10 minutes. The guilty plea and the money to pay the fine had all been arranged in advance.

Actually, Jonkel was no more guilty than various others who participated in the hot campaign against Sen. Millard Tydings. However, he was picked as the scapegoat.

What the boys who engineered the Maryland campaign against Tydings were afraid of was what Jonkel would say on cross-examination. Would he perjure himself? Or would he tell the truth? In the latter case, some others might have been in the soup too.

The whole problem was discussed at the GOP Senate Campaign Committee some time ago, at which cagey Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine, former committee chairman, gave this general advice.

"Our first duty is to protect our senator, and make sure John Butler keeps his seat, but Jonkel is a professional (Public Relations) man, and therefore this is all part of the business to him."

Some other Republicans, however, are not happy over this strategy. Remarked one GOP senator: "Truman always backs his men—even when they're wrong. We've got to do the same thing if we want to encourage loyalty in the party."

Note — Maryland's new GOP Governor, Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, and his state leaders are not unhappy over Jonkel's conviction. They have long resented the interference of the Chicago Tribune in Maryland politics, and the repeated assertions that Bazy Miller, niece of Colonel McCormick, and Senator McCarthy really defeated Tydings. Jonkel was brought to Maryland from Chicago by this group.

Congressional Widower

Georgia's forthright "Uncle Carl" Vinson, 67-year-old boss of the House Armed Services Committee, is furious over whispers that he is about to marry his office secretary, attractive Charlotte Conn of Milledgeville, Ga. The rumors have been taken so seriously that Vinson's office was queried by the A.P. as to whether he eloped.

Vinson, now a widower, probably doesn't realize that he started the rumors himself by sprucing up around the office and going on a diet of black coffee in the morning, fruit juice at noon and a light evening meal. This led to sly winks from his congressional colleagues, then talk about an office romance.

When the rumors got back to him, Vinson exploded. He said he hadn't made a fool of himself yet and doesn't intend to start doing so now.

Washington Pipeline

Gordon Gray, former secretary of the army, now president of the University of North Carolina, is being urged to come back to government . . . so also is Barry Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier Journal, who helped build up the Marshall Plan in Europe . . . The Justice Department can't make up its mind whether to crack down on Joe Rosenbaum, who figured in the RFC scandals. Rosenbaum denied stating that he had RFC directors Dunham and Willett "in his pocket," but the Justice Department has come up with conflicting evidence . . . Reason why the French government will send a representative to the reunion of the 94th Division at Chicago next week is because that division organized Free French and Communist French troops in the Battle of Brittany and starved out the German-held ports of Brest and St. Nazaire . . . American scientists have now perfected a small, pocket-size radio set, which can be dropped behind the Iron Curtain. It can be manufactured for only about $5 and may revolutionize listening to the Voice of America . . . Americans Have Not Had Real Information About Proposed Korean Evacuation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 11 — The American people have not yet been told the true story in actual sequence concerning the proposed evacuation of Korea last January.

The reason for this is that a key message — without which everything that has been testified to in the last five weeks is not understandable—has been withheld from the Senate Investigating Committee. It is intimated by some senators that this is attributal either to a carelessness in paraphrase or a deliberate attempt to conceal.

The piecemeal and confusing method of presenting to the Senate Committee the messages which passed between the joint chiefs of staff and General MacArthur is really due partly to carelessness and partly to the failure of the senators themselves to demand the proper sequence and to compare all the paraphrased messages with the originals.

The significance of the omissions is that it turns out now that General MacArthur was virtually ordered in January by the joint chiefs to abandon Korea and he was reminded pointedly that the defense of Japan was still a "primary mission." Being unable to handle both the mission of resisting in Korea and defending Japan with the small forces he had, General MacArthur called for reenforcements. He pointed out that the Chinese Nationalists could be used, that our own air force and navy were being only partially utilized. He asked for a decision at the highest level and got it—President Truman who had approved all the previous messages wrote a special message which while not giving the general a directive did encourage him to make the decision in favor of staying in Korea. But what's more important—and this isn't shown by the messages — General MacArthur was given reenforcements from the United States even though the joint chiefs had previously declined to send him any. Four extra divisions, moreover, were sent to Japan and this relieved the strain on the mission to protect Japan.

The story of what happened as taken in chronological order from the messages may be summed up about as follows:

December 29, 1950—on this day a key message was sent to Gen. MacArthur by the joint chiefs. It was improperly paraphrased early in the hearings and most of the vital point omitted. It has finally been put into the record but even now important information has been omitted though it has nothing to do with security.

Gen. MacArthur was advised in this message that his basic directive which had been to furnish "assistance to the Republic of Korea and repel attack and restore to the area security and peace" was "modified." It was emphasized that his "primary mission" was also the defense of Japan and that the Eighth Army was needed for the protection of Japan, that it was not practicable to obtain at this time additional forces from the other United Nations and that the joint chiefs didn't "believe commitment of additional ground forces of the U. S. should be made."

This message was the subject of conferences in Washington over a period of three days before it was sent and President Truman, Assistant Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary Marshall and General Bradley all approved it.

December 30, 1950—General MacArthur sent a long message to the joint chiefs pointing out that U. S. Air Force and Navy potential were not being fully used, that a naval blockade could be authorized and that he be permitted to bomb enemy concentrations in Manchuria as well as Chinese industrial targets but that if no reenforcements of any kind were coming he agreed with the tactical estimate that it would be better to evacuate. He pointed out, however, that a "forced evacuation" without retaliatory action against Red China would have a most adverse effect on the peoples of Asia and particularly Japan and in the end it would call for greater reenforcements of troops than we had then in the Far East.

January 9, 1951—The joint chiefs of staffs sent a directive to Gen. MacArthur telling him that his various proposals were not practicable and that a naval blockade by the United Nations was not likely to be approved because of British trade with Communist China through Hong Kong and that the effort to impose an economic blockade was being intensified. It told him flatly that "strengthening of our effort in Korea does not appear justified."

January 10, 1951—General MacArthur sent a message to the joint chiefs stating that the instructions given him about using his troops in Korea for the "primary mission" in Japan needed "clarification." He asked the point-blank question whether he was to stay in Korea indefinitely, stay for a limited period, or evacuate at once. He said that, if policy considerations required, his force could hold out "for any length of time up to its complete destruction." He asked for a decision at the highest level as he felt that it was a matter which should not be left to the discretion of the theatre commander.

January 12, 1951—The joint chiefs responded wtih a military directive saying "We are forced to the conclusion, based upon all the factors known to us, including particularly those presented by you in your recent message, that it is infeasible under existing conditions, including sustained major effort by Communist China, to hold the position in Korea for a protracted period" because it was not desired "to fight a major war in Korea." It was further pointed out to Gen. MacArthur that it was important to U.N. prestige "that Korea not be evacuated unless forced by military consideration." This could have meant that Gen. MacArthur had to sacrifice the Eighth Army and that he could not make a voluntary withdrawal even if conditions required it.

January 13, 1951 — President Truman sent a personal message directly to Gen. MacArthur emphasizing policy factors and stating that the message "was not a directive." The President passed the buck on the question of evacuation but put such emphasis on the importance of "successful resistance" in Korea that it impressed Gen. MacArthur that this was what he really wanted despite the confusing message of the joint chiefs of staff on the preceding day. In the message Mr. Truman spoke of various advantages of "successful resistance" including the necessity of gaining "time to give direct assistance to the organization of non-Communist resistance to Asia, both outside and inside China.

January 13 to 16—Generals Collins and Vandenberg of the joint chiefs were in Tokyo conferring with Gen. MacArthur. They had left Washington before the President's personal message of Jan. 13th was sent so they discussed it in a conference with Gen. MacArthur and his senior officers. Gen. Collins thought it meant to stay in Korea for only a limited period. Gen. Vandenberg was inclined to accept Gen. MacArthur's interpretation that it meant to stay and resist indefinitely. The issue turned on the matter of reinforcements. As a consequence of the visit of Gen. Collins, Gen. MacArthur was subsequently given a promise of enough troops to bring up his divisions to full strength—a very sizable number of reinforcements. Likewise four extra divisions were ordered to Japan and thus the strain of the protection of the 'defense of Japan" with the Eighth Army was relieved.

The final words of the Jan. 13th personal message from Mr. Truman had said to Sen. MacArthur that "the entire nation is grateful for your splendid leadership in the difficult struggle in Korea." Gen. MacArthur telegraphed back "I'll do my best." He flew to Korea to tell Gen. Ridgway to take the word "evacuation" out of the Eighth Army's vocabulary.

That's the true story of what happened and any thought that Gen. MacArthur just wanted to expand the war for war's sake is rebutted by the facts—he was denied reinforcements and given an impossible directive to fulfill. He got his reinforcements for both Korea and Japan and then fought on. The whole thing shows that there is something vitally wrong at the top command in Washington.

Q—Is it true that owls hoot and cuckoos call before it is going to rain?

9—A number of birds, including the owl and cuckoo, are very sensitive to changes in the weather and often begin calling when the sky begins to be overcast. Though they are responsive to such changes, and may notice them even before a human, this should not be regarded as an ability to predict the weather.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 11, 1951

BARGAIN BASEMENT DERBIES

The price war in New York has served to whet the appetites of bargain-hungry customers everywhere. Even the most optimistic persons have little hope that the drastic price reductions will be more than temporary but the idea of any price cuts is enough to cause smiles of pleasure.

One solution which might permit indefinite continuation of the sales without great net loss to the merchants might lie in an appeal to the American love for spectator sports. Bargain days could be promoted in the same manner as football, baseball or boxing, with bleachers and grandstands erected around the shopping area. Gate receipts could defray the profit lost in reducing prices and assure the businessman of a fair overall profit. The idea might provide sports fans with more action than they have witnessed in some other arenas in recent years.

The possibilities are endless. Any hapless man who has ventured into a crowd of bargain-seeking women knows that only the well condition should compete in this arena. Shoppers could be garbed in distinctive uniforms to allow easy recognition of individuals from the stands. Outstanding shoppers from regularly scheduled weekly sales could be made eligible to participate in a gigantic annual sale which would correspond to baseball's World Series.

This fantasy may seem too ridiculous to be taken seriously. But any idea that proposes lowering prices while completely satisfying all segments of the population is ridiculous. At a time of dangerous inflation only cool unselfish thinking can provide any hope of a good solution.

REVIVING NAZISM

A formidable showing for a new Nazi party is reported in Germany. A recent election gave 366,000 votes to the Socialist Reich party, whose platform resembles many features of the Hitler regime. Religious and racial persecution, however, are not planned, says the leader, Count Westarp. His name recalls the Count Westarp who was a strong jingo and advocate of "Deutschland Uber Alles" in the days of Kaiser Wilhelm II.

While it is disturbing to find that so many Germans still defy world sentiment, it is not unnatural. During the early days of the war the Germans lived on the food and other valuables stolen from the conquered countries of Europe. Anyone would be well off under such circumstances. No wonder that the lament is heard, "It was better under Hitler." A free press might have told them where their food was coming from. Under Hitler they were kept in the dark about everything he did not want them to know. The real occasion for surprise is perhaps that the vote for Nazism was not greater.

FINDING FAULT

Finding fault with things as they are is not in itself a bad thing. The great reformers of the world found fault with conditions as they were and moved boldly to correct them. A desire to attain perfection and a tendency to be critical of anything less can motivate men to mighty accomplishments. But fault-finding done for its own sake is distasteful and useless.

It is easy to be critical of the work of others. Man is human and will make mistakes. It is not so easy to remember this and to make allowances for imperfections which are outweighed by the good accomplished. Too often the person who is hypercritical is too busy complaining and criticizing to offer any constructive suggestions to remedy the things about which he complains.

PING-PONG A LA RUSSE

One way to get rid of war, said the philosopher William James, is to substitute some other outlet for the combative instincts. On this principle Americans should welcome the news from Russia that the All-Union Physical Culture Commission has ordered Russians to take up table tennis on a mass scale.

This is doubtless the least alarming news to come out of Russia in a long time. The development of competition in sports should foster individual judgment and broaden contact with outside groups. From this standpoint the growth of so mild a sport as table tennis is to be welcomed. It might help.

Probably few of us will rate an epitaph as victorious or as final as the one on a wooden stick at a grave in Normandy, which reads: "In memory of Maggie, a mule, who in her lifetime kicked one colonel, one major, three lieutenants, eleven sergeants, sixty-seven privates and one bomb."

MALTZ VS. DMYTRYK

Albert Maltz and Edward Dmytryk were of the notorious Hollywood Ten who went to jail rather than say yes or no to being members of the Communist Party, which we now know most of them were by collateral testimony. Maltz chooses to remain a Communist and is publicly so in the affairs of the party. Dmytryk testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities that he once was a Communist but now is no more.

Now along comes Maltz and says Dmytryk is not sincere of heart. In a two-page spread in "The Hollywood Reporter," Maltz publishes an open letter to "The Saturday Evening Post" in which he does a complete hatchet job on his former pal.

The point at issue is that Dmytryk claims he ceased to be a Communist in 1945. Maltz asks:

". . . If Dmytryk at last, and finally, learned that he had been associated with a group of malevolent scoundrels whom he now repudiated—then let me ask further: Why did his wife continue to function publicly as a member of the Committee of the Wives of the Hollywood Ten? Why also did his wife join mine in August, 1950, in appearing in Sacramento, Calif., before the platform committees of the Democratic and Republican Parties and before the convention of the Progressive Party, to ask all three parties to include a statement on the case of the Hollywood Ten in their platform on civil liberties? And why, at the end of August, did Mrs. Dmytryk join my wife in a common visit to prison? Why did they sleep in the same hotel room, hire a car together, travel 120 miles from Charleston to Mill Point, W. Va., visit, remain over night and travel back together? The prison records show they were together and 20 officers and inmates will testify to it."

Maltz was Dmytryk's best man at the latter's marriage to Jean Porter on May 12, 1948, which was three years after Dmytryk said he ceased to be a Communist. So Maltz wants to know how that happened, which, of course, to ordinary people should mean nothing, for cannot men be friends who differ politically? He even intimates that Dmytryk is a Communist who has gone underground for the duration.

Now, I do not want to get into the row between these pals. The House Committee on Un-American Activities ought to have Albert Maltz down to Washington to testify as to this letter. Let the Communists tell their own story in their own way.

But what is serious about all this is that motion pictures and television need to be freed not only from Communist influence but from the reputation of being dominated by Communists and their friends. These industries have been and can be useful to the country not only as amusement and entertainment but as a creative force in mass education.

That makes Hollywood a serious place, one that needs to be watched and studied. Little children get many ideas from the movies and from television; they get them at so early an age that they remain as character-forming phases of the child's life. For instance, such characters as Roy Rogers and Hopalong Cassidy are substantial forces in the development of national ideals. This must not be regarded as far-fetched, because contact with children in any large numbers will establish the correctness of the view.

Furthermore, we face a critical moral situation in this country which involves the re-education of an entire nation. In that re-education, the motion picture industry and the television industry must play as great a role as the school and the college. Traitors at heart and cheap personalities will not do that job for America.

The assumption that Hollywood is made up of the shameless creatures who publicize their vices is false. When one digs through the heap of dirt that has been publicized, it is not difficult to find serious-minded, healthy-thinking Americans who work in the right direction. I call attention to the members of the Motion Picture Alliance who have risked their careers to fight for America.

The work of the House Committee on Un-American Activities has been invaluable in the cleansing of Hollywood which must now include television. But it is essential for the public to make a distinction between such creatures as the Hollywood Ten and the fine men and women of the Motion Picture Alliance.

RICE DIET TO LOWER BLOOD PRESSURE

It is known that, in general, Chinese people living in China have lower blood pressure than do United States and Canadian people living in America. It is also known that when Chinese live in America for some time their blood pressure rises; similarly Americans living in China for some time have a gradual lowering of their blood pressure.

This raising and lowering of the blood pressure, according to where one lives, has always been attributed to the fact that the Chinese as a race have always lived at a less rapid rate than we do here. While it is admitted that the quiet life of the Chinese is a big factor in causing lower blood pressure, our research workers are telling us that it is because the Chinese make rice their principal food that causes their pressure to remain low. Other research workers state that it is the low or small amount of salt in what is known as the "rice diet" that is responsible for the decrease in the blood pressure and decrease in weight in those who are overweight.

The rice diet, if strictly followed, will lower the blood pressure temporarily, yet physicians know that following the rice diet is difficult and may cause weakness. A report on the rice diet is therefore worth studying.

In The American Journal of Medicine, New York, Drs. D. M. Watkin, H. F. Froeb, F. T. Hatch and A. B. Gulman record the effects of hospitalization on 86 patients with high blood pressure who were given a regular diet to get their lowest or base-line pressure. Fifty of these patients in whom the base or lowest pressure (on a regular diet for ten weeks) had been found were then put on the rice diet for ten weeks. The results were encouraging as the blood pressure was reduced. However, it was found that cutting down on table salt (sodium chloride) and other foods rich in sodium lowered the blood pressure by about the same amount as did the rice diet.

I am repeating the above facts for my readers because following the strict rice diet imposes such hardship on the patient and so much difficulty in control as to make it impractical for general use.

Firmly Planted

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — The beer barons are now hustling around the capital pulling all sorts of wires to prevent beer from being sold in bottles. They want their beer in tin cans, despite the fact that the National Production Authority is clamping down on the unnecessary use of tin, now one of the scarce metals badly needed for mobilization.

Botatles, on the other hand, are not scarce. Despite this, the brewing companies are howling to high heaven against using them.

Oddly enough, the champion of the breweries is GOP Sen. Hugh Butler of Omaha, Neb.—which is a long way from Milwaukee, Wis., the beer capital. Butler has bombarded NPA with sizzling letters and has even made personal trips to NPA headquarters on behalf of the brewing companies.

His latest letter angrily denounces the "pressure" against tin for beer cans and demands that NPA notify him before taking any action in favor of bottled beer. What Butler may not know, however, is that the "pressure" is coming from right under his nose in the Senate. Texas Sen. Lyndon Johnson's alert watchdog committee does not consider beer cans essential to the national defense and has urged a return to bottles.

Note — Butler's home state of Nebraska has only two small brewing companies — Storz and Metz. The Nebraska Senator has been under pressure from Storz but hasn't even heard from Metz. In spite of his emphasis on beer cans, Butler explained to this column that his fight is for tin for the entire canning industry.

Gen. Collins Criticizes

It may mean a shake-up in army training, but Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, was critical of U. S. Army maneuvers in west Germany last week. After watching crack army combat units in mock battle near Grafenwohr, Collins called for more stress on firepower, less on manpower.

The units had been practicing frontal attacks and bayonet charges, which run up the casualty list as the Chinese have learned in Korea. Instead, Collins recommended that the troops deploy to high ground and concentrate on firepower. He pointed out that America can spare artillery fire, but not men. Collins also suggested that the air force work closer with ground troops in actual training in order to improve tactical air support.

Maryland Conviction

It was no accident that Jon Jonkel, the Chicago Tribune friend - campaign - manager for GOP Sen. John Butler in Maryland, pleaded guilty to violating the Corrupt Practices Act and paid his $5,000 fine within about 10 minutes. The guilty plea and the money to pay the fine had all been arranged in advance.

Actually, Jonkel was no more guilty than various others who participated in the hot campaign against Sen. Millard Tydings. However, he was picked as the scapegoat.

What the boys who engineered the Maryland campaign against Tydings were afraid of was what Jonkel would say on cross-examination. Would he perjure himself? Or would he tell the truth? In the latter case, some others might have been in the soup too.

The whole problem was discussed at the GOP Senate Campaign Committee some time ago, at which cagey Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine, former committee chairman, gave this general advice.

"Our first duty is to protect our senator, and make sure John Butler keeps his seat, but Jonkel is a professional (Public Relations) man, and therefore this is all part of the business to him."

Some other Republicans, however, are not happy over this strategy. Remarked one GOP senator: "Truman always backs his men—even when they're wrong. We've got to do the same thing if we want to encourage loyalty in the party."

Note — Maryland's new GOP Governor, Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, and his state leaders are not unhappy over Jonkel's conviction. They have long resented the interference of the Chicago Tribune in Maryland politics, and the repeated assertions that Bazy Miller, niece of Colonel McCormick, and Senator McCarthy really defeated Tydings. Jonkel was brought to Maryland from Chicago by this group.

Congressional Widower

Georgia's forthright "Uncle Carl" Vinson, 67-year-old boss of the House Armed Services Committee, is furious over whispers that he is about to marry his office secretary, attractive Charlotte Conn of Milledgeville, Ga. The rumors have been taken so seriously that Vinson's office was queried by the A.P. as to whether he eloped.

Vinson, now a widower, probably doesn't realize that he started the rumors himself by sprucing up around the office and going on a diet of black coffee in the morning, fruit juice at noon and a light evening meal. This led to sly winks from his congressional colleagues, then talk about an office romance.

When the rumors got back to him, Vinson exploded. He said he hadn't made a fool of himself yet and doesn't intend to start doing so now.

Americans Have Not Had Real Information About Proposed Korean Evacuation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 11 — The American people have not yet been told the true story in actual sequence concerning the proposed evacuation of Korea last January.

The reason for this is that a key message — without which everything that has been testified to in the last five weeks is not understandable—has been withheld from the Senate Investigating Committee. It is intimated by some senators that this is attributal either to a carelessness in paraphrase or a deliberate attempt to conceal.

The piecemeal and confusing method of presenting to the Senate Committee the messages which passed between the joint chiefs of staff and General MacArthur is really due partly to carelessness and partly to the failure of the senators themselves to demand the proper sequence and to compare all the paraphrased messages with the originals.

The significance of the omissions is that it turns out now that General MacArthur was virtually ordered in January by the joint chiefs to abandon Korea and he was reminded pointedly that the defense of Japan was still a "primary mission." Being unable to handle both the mission of resisting in Korea and defending Japan with the small forces he had, General MacArthur called for reenforcements. He pointed out that the Chinese Nationalists could be used, that our own air force and navy were being only partially utilized. He asked for a decision at the highest level and got it—President Truman who had approved all the previous messages wrote a special message which while not giving the general a directive did encourage him to make the decision in favor of staying in Korea. But what's more important—and this isn't shown by the messages — General MacArthur was given reenforcements from the United States even though the joint chiefs had previously declined to send him any. Four extra divisions, moreover, were sent to Japan and this relieved the strain on the mission to protect Japan.

The story of what happened as taken in chronological order from the messages may be summed up about as follows:

December 29, 1950—on this day a key message was sent to Gen. MacArthur by the joint chiefs. It was improperly paraphrased early in the hearings and most of the vital point omitted. It has finally been put into the record but even now important information has been omitted though it has nothing to do with security.

Gen. MacArthur was advised in this message that his basic directive which had been to furnish "assistance to the Republic of Korea and repel attack and restore to the area security and peace" was "modified." It was emphasized that his "primary mission" was also the defense of Japan and that the Eighth Army was needed for the protection of Japan, that it was not practicable to obtain at this time additional forces from the other United Nations and that the joint chiefs didn't "believe commitment of additional ground forces of the U. S. should be made."

This message was the subject of conferences in Washington over a period of three days before it was sent and President Truman, Assistant Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary Marshall and General Bradley all approved it.

December 30, 1950—General MacArthur sent a long message to the joint chiefs pointing out that U. S. Air Force and Navy potential were not being fully used, that a naval blockade could be authorized and that he be permitted to bomb enemy concentrations in Manchuria as well as Chinese industrial targets but that if no reenforcements of any kind were coming he agreed with the tactical estimate that it would be better to evacuate. He pointed out, however, that a "forced evacuation" without retaliatory action against Red China would have a most adverse effect on the peoples of Asia and particularly Japan and in the end it would call for greater reenforcements of troops than we had then in the Far East.

January 9, 1951—The joint chiefs of staffs sent a directive to Gen. MacArthur telling him that his various proposals were not practicable and that a naval blockade by the United Nations was not likely to be approved because of British trade with Communist China through Hong Kong and that the effort to impose an economic blockade was being intensified. It told him flatly that "strengthening of our effort in Korea does not appear justified."

January 10, 1951—General MacArthur sent a message to the joint chiefs stating that the instructions given him about using his troops in Korea for the "primary mission" in Japan needed "clarification." He asked the point-blank question whether he was to stay in Korea indefinitely, stay for a limited period, or evacuate at once. He said that, if policy considerations required, his force could hold out "for any length of time up to its complete destruction." He asked for a decision at the highest level as he felt that it was a matter which should not be left to the discretion of the theatre commander.

January 12, 1951—The joint chiefs responded with a military directive saying "We are forced to the conclusion, based upon all the factors known to us, including particularly those presented by you in your recent message, that it is infeasible under existing conditions, including sustained major effort by Communist China, to hold the position in Korea for a protracted period" because it was not desired "to fight a major war in Korea." It was further pointed out to Gen. MacArthur that it was important to U.N. prestige "that Korea not be evacuated unless forced by military consideration . . ." This could have meant that Gen. MacArthur had to sacrifice the Eighth Army and that he could not make a voluntary withdrawal even if conditions required it.

January 13, 1951 — President Truman sent a personal message directly to Gen. MacArthur emphasizing policy factors and stating that the message "was not a directive." The President passed the buck on the question of evacuation but put such emphasis on the importance of "successful resistance" in Korea that it impressed Gen. MacArthur that this was what he really wanted despite the confusing message of the joint chiefs of staff on the preceding day. In the message Mr. Truman spoke of various advantages of "successful resistance" including the necessity of gaining "time to give direct assistance to the organization of non-Communist resistance to Asia, both outside and inside China.

January 13 to 16—Generals Collins and Vandenberg of the joint chiefs were in Tokyo conferring with Gen. MacArthur. They had left Washington before the President's personal message of Jan. 13th was sent so they discussed it in a conference with Gen. MacArthur and his senior officers. Gen. Collins thought it meant to stay in Korea for only a limited period. Gen. Vandenberg was inclined to accept Gen. MacArthur's interpretation that it meant to stay and resist indefinitely. The issue turned on the matter of reinforcements. As a consequence of the visit of Gen. Collins, Gen. MacArthur was subsequently given a promise of enough troops to bring up his divisions to full strength—a very sizable number of reinforcements. Likewise four extra divisions were ordered to Japan and thus the strain of the protection of the 'defense of Japan" with the Eighth Army was relieved.

The final words of the Jan. 13th personal message from Mr. Truman had said to Sen. MacArthur that "the entire nation is grateful for your splendid leadership in the difficult struggle in Korea." Gen. MacArthur telegraphed back "I'll do my best." He flew to Korea to tell Gen. Ridgway to take the word "evacuation" out of the Eighth Army's vocabulary.

That's the true story of what happened and any thought that Gen. MacArthur just wanted to expand the war for war's sake is rebutted by the facts—he was denied reinforcements and given an impossible directive to fulfill. He got his reinforcements for both Korea and Japan and then fought on. The whole thing shows that there is something vitally wrong at the top command in Washington.

Questions — Answers

Q—Is it true that owls hoot and cuckoos call before it is going to rain?

A—A number of birds, including the owl and cuckoo, are very sensitive to changes in the weather and often begin calling when the sky begins to be overcast. Though they are responsive to such changes, and may notice them even before a human, this should not be regarded as an ability to predict the weather.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Like the pioneers, news travels from east to west so the gaudy beheading of an Oklahoma husbandman by a petulant farmhand out behind the barn is worth less lineage on the wires than a bloodless slapping in the Stork. Two years ago, in New York, the water level fell behind the Kensico Dam and some of the old rock walls came up for air. Great was the consternation thereat, hollered far and wide. On the other hand, I have seen no notice taken outside Arizona of the decline of the ground-water level after eight years of drought in the desert.

This decline has been accelerated by the pumping of small rivers from the depths to provide about four feet of water on many thousands of acres of cotton. The natural supply of water is being squandered to make a few bales of cotton while the old southern cotton belt turns to mechanical industry. Tucson, a quiet little trading and shipping city, in 10 years has grown from about 60,000 to about 130,000 people in a region called, with modest pride, "the metropolitan area." Phoenix and some other cities have grown proportionately. Much of this new population is permanent, if only because war and/or militarism is now a great industry of our republic, permanent as far as the mind of man can see.

This is flying country. Between World Wars 2 and 3 we had providentially stored many B-29's on the desert at Davis-Monthan field which are now being stripped of their plastic cocoons and modernized by a company called Grand Central Aircraft. The United Auto Workers of the CIO, jumped in for part of the money but, after a brisk fight, the employes turned back the union decisively.

This rebuff is not permanent, of course. The UAW maintains a staff of professional agitators who more than pay their keep by constant nagging and they are hanging around to try again at Grand Central and to make a pass at the employes of Howard Hughes. He is starting a big plant to manufacture guided missiles, and buying great tracts of desert land, which has boomed from as little as $15 an acre to as much as $500. He will have about 7,500 employes at the maximum and the rakeoff and the political power to be wielded through that rakeoff present the usual temptation to the UAW.

The CIO and the A.F. of L., with all their money, did very poorly in Ohio against Senator Taft, however, and Arizona, in the last year has elected a Republican governor, Howard Pyle, and Tucson has elected a Republican mayor and city council. The political revolution was wrought largely by the diligent personal efforts of several women, chief of whom I believe was Mrs. Foster Rockwell, of Phoenix, affectionately known as Maggie all over the state. She campaigned even in tiny Indian settlements for a vote or two. Mrs. John Sundt, and Mrs. Michael O'Connor, both of Tucson, tore into the fight in the new subdivisions around Tucson, organizing and pushing door bells in the manner of the Political Action Committee of the Roosevelt 1944 campaign.

Mrs. O'Connor's father is George Malone, the Republican Senator from Nevada, the Buck Republicans had fallen out with one another over personal issues, including the double-cross, and the women clearly took the play away and earned most of the credit for electing Governor Pyle, who has surprised even his friends by the grace of his politics and his grasp of problems. The Democrats had run up a rotten record. A Democratic state attorney general, an old souse, had been balled up in tawdry jams and had been indicted. Several county bosses had been charged with crimes but had beaten the raps. Then, to cap it all, in Pima county, whose seat is Tucson, the county attorney and the sheriff were indicted on charges of protecting brothels and receiving the earnings of prostitutes. The sheriff pleaded guilty to conspiracy. The county attorney is on trial as this is written.

Arizona is strangely prim by comparison with her neighbor, Nevada, and New York. Th brothel case was a tasty scandal, but only recently in Nevada some of the city fathers of a stringtown called Searchlight raised indignant outcries when Roger Foley, the county attorney, ordered them to put out of business three utilities with a combined faculty of 30 ladies. The law forbids them on a public highway or within 300 yards of a school. There are no such restructions on gambling. Searchlight is an old gold and silver camp where a few miners still pick away producing a substance called pearlite, but the trade came mainly from fishermen going to or from Lake Mead or casuals from the Las Vegas traffic.

One of the pillars of Searchlight said it would be cheaper to move the school because schools produce no revenue and are a financial deadweight. The brothels on the other hand were the cornerstone of Searchlight's economy. Out of delicacy, the license form used for the trade describes the ladies as cocktail waitresses. Public sentiment may be gauged by the number of signatures on a petition to revoke the order. There are 184 registered voters in Searchlight, 76 of whom entreated Mr. Foley to adopt a reasonable position.

Dear sir:

Against what I considered my better judgment I attended a Saturday matinee of The Great Caruso, which stars Mario Lanza, and is near its final day at Reade's Kingston Theatre.

My thought was that a matinee attended mainly by children of grade school age might be a noisy, distracting period to see and hear such a moving production. I visualized pop corn throwing, the noises of boredom.

What really took place was that from the beginning of the picture through the final aria there was a hush over the theatre. At the end of moving operatic passages the children and adults applauded. It was an experience in sharp contrast to an evening presentation of the film the writer attended in the same theatre.

So you never know. It does prove, however, there's so much emotional depth in a child's heart that, if you give one the best, you get the best in return. It was truly an experience and my hat is off to the children of Kingston.

GRATEFUL.

Jacoby on Canasta

Ever Held a Perfect Hand?

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"What is the perfect Canasta hand?" asks a Sarasota reader. "The other night I was dealt a concealed hand. I just melded out on my first play. Is it possible to do better than that?"

I should say it is. If you meld out at your first play, your side probably scores about 500 points and catches the opponents with about 300 points. With unusual luck, you might stretch that to a net gain of a thousand points. That is not in the same league with a really perfect hand.

Let the pack be born frozen with a joker when each side needs 120 points for the first meld. Then discover that you have been dealt three jokers and a pair of fours, fives, sixes, and sevens. That is the perfect hand.

The player at your right is bound to throw a small card sooner or later, and then you will win the discard pile. In the meantime it will be very difficult for anybody else to make the count without a single big joker. In fact, the opponent may never be able to make the count, and the hand may develop into one long nightmare for them.

That sort of hand may bring in several thousand points. So if you're daydreaming about the kind of a hand you'd like to pick up, that's the kind of hand to dream about.

Q—A player in a four-handed game put down a joker and three kings, melding 90 points for the initial meld. He put the cards back in his hand, saying that his side now needed 100 points instead of only 90 points for the initial meld. We said he also had to pay a penalty of 100 points for putting cards back in his hand. Who is right?

A—The player was right. The only penalty is that his side must meld ten points more than the normal amount for its initial meld. In this case the initial meld must therefore be 100 points.

Q—The last card in the stock was a red three. What is the correct procedure?

A—The player who draws the red three merely puts it down on the table. He is not allowed to meld or to discard. The hand ends as soon as he has put down that red three.

Q—I was playing in a two-handed game, needing two canastas to go out. Before I could get two canastas my opponent melded out. I had several small melds on the table. Do I get credit for my red threes, or do I lose points for them?

A—You get credit for your red threes if you have any meld at all on the table.

Theatre Owner Surrenders

Colver, Pa. (AP)—Rows of television antennas jutting from the homes in this small western Pennsylvania mining community tell the tale of its only theatre forced to shut down after 21 years. Two years ago, the theatre had a weekly attendance of 1,700. Then one by one the miners began purchasing TV sets until the attendance dropped to 700. So John Smylnycky, the manager, took a cue from the lines, "If you can't lick 'em, join 'em." He entered the television business, himself.

The "Unconditional Surrender" of the Axis Powers was designed at the Casablanca Conference in January, 1943.

Coach House Leads

New to the Kingston stage this season are veteran trouper Marianne Davis, and Karl Pech, who co-starred Saturday night in the Coach House Players' Victorian comedy, Strange Bedfellows. The political farce was presented at the Woodstock Playhouse.

Coach House Comedy, 'Strange Bedfellows' Wins Enthusiastic Applause at Playhouse

The Coach House Players have done it again. For amateurs, Saturday night's production of Strange Bedfellows echoed with a decidely professional ring. The Woodstock Playhouse, at home as it is with summer theatre and the "straw-hat" circuit, has seen stage craft a whole lot less competent, and by people who have a lot more time and technical know-how to work with.

Strange Bedfellows, for a little theatre group's third large production, bordered on the exceptional. Ask almost any individual in the Playhouse's capacity audience Saturday night. Those bouquets of roses at about the third curtain call, and director Dick Richards' all too brief appearance, were well earned.

Equally outstanding Saturday night in that saga of Victorian San Francisco, with the Golden Gate's wide-open Gold Coast, and its womenfolk's earnest struggle for equal suffrage, were Senator William Cromwell's wife Julia, played by Coach House star Eve Pech, and Kay Burgevin's wonderfully convincing interpretation of that shrewd business woman from the other side of the tracks, Mrs. Tillie Sparker. There couldn't have been a better combination. Not that the rest of the cast were shirkers. Almost without exception, they seemed to be what they were supposed to be . . . and that's high praise.

Well Qualified

Take Clarissa Blynn Cromwell, the sometimes obnoxious, yet lovable suffragette leader. You'd have to comb the countryside pretty fine to discover an actress who could play the role with more competence than Marianne Davis. Miss Davis' background, if nothing else, has left her more than well qualified.

The rest of the cast also deserve their share of praise and glory. Perhaps Karl Peck as Matthew, the senator's politically minded anti-suffragette son, and Clarissa's husband, was a trifle hard to hear from the rear of the patron packed Playhouse, but otherwise he handled his role with a great deal of aplomb.

Male Leads

And speaking of male leads, Roy Wulff as the fiery senator, was well worth his weight in chuckles. Ed Eckert managed to neatly balance the charming ne'er do well and the male egoist Gifford Hampton, and Dennis Brady's weak-kneed squeaks as that political pawn, Mayor Ambrose Tibbett, nearly brought the house down. Richard Becker did nobly with the tough task of portraying an Oriental butler, Ling, while youthful Bruce Peters was a very stage sure Nicky.

The ladies aquitted themselves equally well, from Birdie and Opal, played by Helen Rose Mellert and Marilyn Orr, to Doris Dodd as the rather supercilious Addie Cromwell Hampton, and Dennie Loomis as her adolescent daughter, Lillian.

Nor would the comedy have been complete without Maureen Rice as Mrs. Gimble, and Anna Van Brocklin as Mrs. Worley, two stiff-necked Victorians who must have been born against woman having the vote.

Backstake Credits

A few garlands, bouquets, and what-not for that swift-moving, never a dull moment comedy also go the unsung heroes of backstage, headed by production manager Irving Rose. The authentic, and attractive set well earned its round of applause, thanks to Dennis Barnhart and Olive Dahl, properties heads, while the costumes, the work of Helen Davenport, carried out the illusion of that whalebone and corseted era.

Cecilia Louise Cassese Is Wed Sunday In St. Francis de Sales Church, Phoenicia

St. Francis de Sales Church, Phoenicia, was the scene yesterday afternoon of the marriage of Miss Cecilia Louise Cassese of Hotel Phoenicia, daughter of Anthony Cassese and the late Mrs. Cassese, to William Bruce Coulter, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Coulter, 118 Pierce avenue, Bridgeport, Conn. The double ring ceremony was performed at 3 p. m. by the Rev. Cornelius Hayes of that parish.

Organ selections during the ceremony were played by Mrs. Garret C. Bennett, while Miss Pauline Poschner sang Ave Maria, and Panis Angelicus. Floral decorations at the church included gladioli, snapdragons, and ferns. Pews were marked with satin ribbon and gladioli, and a white runner was spread for the bridal party.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Joseph Koenig, this city, wore a ballerina length Chantilly lace gown over white taffeta, with an overskirt and train of white nylon tulle and lace. Her French illusion fingertip veil was attached to a white taffeta and lace cap, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white stephanotis and carnations, trailing ivy.

Miss Geraldine Murphy of Phoenicia, niece of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Murphy was dressed in a mauve, off-shoulder organdy gown, with a large horsehair hat, and matching tulle bow. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow carnatioins, daisies, and trailing ivy.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Hart of Prospect Park, Brooklyn, Miss Mary Westervelt of Brooklyn, and Miss Marilyn Caunitz of this city. They were dressed in sea green off-shoulder organza gowns with large horsehair hats and matching tulle bows. Their cascade bouquets were made from yellow daisies, salmon pink carnations, and trailing ivy.

Patricia Murphy, niece of the bride, and Patricia Holgate, both of Phoenicia, were flower girls. Gary Murphy, nephew of the bride, was child ring-bearer.

J. Armin Coulter of Brideport was best man for his brother. Ushering were Raymond Smith, Fairfield, Conn., Dr. Roderick Richards, Scarsdale and Julian A. Sohon, Jr., Bridgeport.

A reception for 200 guests was held following the ceremony at Hotel Phoenicia, with music by Mrs. Clementine Nessel, accordionist.

On their wedding trip the couple will visit Washington, D. C., Williamsburg, Va., and Sea Island, Ga. The bride wore a skipper blue print dress for traveling, with a matching jacket, blue and white accessories, and a white carnation corsage. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Coulter will make their home in Southport, Conn.

Mrs. Coulter was educated at Kingston High School and Adelphi College, Garden City, L. I.

Mr. Coulter attended the University of Cincinnati, and received his degree in mechanical engineering from Cornell University, class of '45. Mr. Coulter, who is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, served for two years during World War 2 with the Sixth Armored Division in the ETO. He is now associated with his father in the Manufacturers Paper Box Co. of Bridgeport.

Junior Marrieds' Dinner Ends Season; Held at Katsbaan

Thursday night's annual dinner, held this year at the Katsbaan Inn, closed the season last week for members of the Junior Married Women's Club of the YWCA.

The retiring president, Mrs. William Gaffken, thanked her fellow officers and committee chairmen for their assistance in making the club year a success, and each officer and chairman reported on her work during the year. One project, club members feel, that will long be remembered, was the presentatiion of a sound movie projector to the YWCA, which was given with the cooperatioin of other YW organizations.

Mrs. Henry Eighmey, a past president of the club, presented Mrs. Gaffken with a purse as a token of the club's appreciation for her year's leadership.

The following committee chairmen were named by Mrs. Fred Port, incoming president: Mrs. Thomas Maines, program; Mrs. Vincent Guido, membership; Mrs. Robert Hogan, publicity; Mrs. Myron Hopper, hospitality; Mrs. George Rifenbary, entertainment; Mrs. Frank Tucker, service; Mrs. Theodore Wood, Jr., finance.

It was also announced that Mrs. Port and her executive committee will meet shortly to plan the club's program for next year.

Following the meeting there was group and individual singing. Mrs. Rifenbary and Mrs. Gaffken, by popular request, repeated their dance routines from the club's Talent Night, and Mrs. John Ceccarelli sang one of her own compositions, I'm Getting Nowhere With You.

Co-chairmen for the dinner were Mrs. Eighmey and Mrs. Edward Whalen.

A PRINTED CARD FOR REPLY

A reader asks quite frankly: "Is it a matter of convenience which prompts reply cards to be enclosed with wedding invitations? On the two occasions we've received such cards it has given me the feeling that the hosts imagined we didn't know enough to answer. Please give us your opinion."

Printed reply cards, while still not really correct, have come into use because of the failure of so many of those invited to reply, and the helplessness of the hosts to know how many to provide for, In short, they are a result of the rudeness of the invited guests.

Secretary Traveling With Employer

Dear Mrs. Post: My employer wants me to go with him on a business trip about 300 miles, to one of our company's factories. Although we can travel there in one day, the work will require most of a week — which means staying at the hotel. There is only one decent one in the town. He wondered if such an arrangement could possibly cause gossip at the home office.

Answer: This depends upon two details: The first, the importance of your being available to him during this visit to the factory; and second, the knowledge of all at the home office that your relationship is solely one of business.

Man's Family May Not Know

Dear Mrs. Post: Possibly I'm especially self-conscious because the family of my daughter's fiance are of much higher social status than we are. They have taken no steps to pay us a visit and under these circumstances I don't like to take the initiative to invite them. What would you suggest?

Answer: It is surprising that so many people do not know it is their obligation when their son becomes engaged to call on the bride's parents. Therefore, if I were you, I would invite them to come in for tea and set a definite time. This invitation could very well be sent verbally through your daughter's fiance.

What is the proper dress for a daytime or evening reception? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-6, "What to Wear at Wedding Receptions," includes full details. Memorial Features Art Gallery Opening

Woodstock, June 11—The Woodstock Artists Association presented an all-membership exhibition in conjunction with a memorial exhibition of the work of Marion Bullard at the opening of the Art Gallery for the summer season Saturday.

Spontaneous and vigorous items are included in the all-membership group, among them Caroline Rohland's dramatic low-keyed Fugitive and Karl Foress' Houses Deposed, a brillian Fruit Bowl, by Cecile Forman and Arnold Blanch's Tropical Night.

On the lighter side there are Nan Mason's amusing Fisherman's Dream, Doris Lee's Beach Comings and Edward Chavez' engaging Family Tree.

With the emphasis rather more on objective rather than abstract painting, notable also art Ethel Magafan's The Precipice, an exquisitely painted head by Andre Ruellan, Elfriede Borkmann's somber Spanish Moss and Edward Millman's Green Burrs.

Jenne Magafan Wins Prize in Albany Show

Woodstock, June 11 — Jenne Magafan has been notified that she won the Artists' Annual Purchase Prize for 1951 in the 16th regional exhibition of Artists of the Upper Hudson, current through June 3 at the Albany Institute of History and Art.

In a review of the show in the June 1 issue of the Art Digest the exhibition is described as a "definite movement toward contemporary idiom, with more established painters exhibiting."

The show's most outstanding work included oils by Edward Chavez, Bruce Currie, Ethel Magafan, Jenne Magafan and Howard Mandel, all of Woodstock.

Hoffman Opens Paint Show at Town House

Woodstock, June 11—Simplicity of line and color value give the paintings of Murray Hoffman, now on view at the Town House, a striking clarity and distinction. In Arizona Cactus there is a fine play of light on greyed violet rock formations with interesting cacti shapes in the foreground, and the same luminous quality pervades Carolina Farm Boy. Mountain Sunset, a well-nigh impossible subject to reproduce on canvas, has been handled so deftly that it blends softly into an appealing composition.

An architect by profession, Hoffman now devotes his time entirely to painting, but he retains the decisiveness of the architect combined with the sensitivity of the painter as evidenced by the amusing False Front. Unusual both in color and design Beach at Carmel hold attention as does the still life Desert Flower. Several portraits enhance the show including Chenault and Mr. Vreedenberg.

The exhibition will remain at the Town House through June 21.

Scouts Plan Court

Woodstock, June 11—The Girl Scout Court of Awards will be held Thursday at 3:30 p. m. The program will be given by the Brownies and the Girl Scouts and the mothers of both groups are invited to attend. Girls of seven years of age, who may become Brownies in the fall, are also invited to attend.

New Zealand Films Are Shown at School

Woodstock, June 11—Dr. William King Gregory, who for many years was head of the Departments of Comparative Anatomy and Fishes in the American Museum of Natural History, New York, showed colored films which were taken on a recent expedition to New Zealand, at the regular Friday afternoon assembly at the Woodstock School.

Included in the motion pictures were several thrilling episodes of members of the expedition reeling in giant deep sea fishes, marlins and sharks, some of which are now on exhibit at the Museum. There were also scenes of underwater plant life, natural rock formations and hot springs.

Dr. Gregory was during the same years he served at the Museum, Professor of Palentology in Columbia University. He is the author of many books and scientific reports dealing with the structure and development of recent animals and of those whose skeletons are found as fossils in many parts of the world. He has been on many scientific expeditions in various lands and oceans, including Australia, the Belgian Congo, South Africa, New Zealand and the West Indies. He is a life member of the Explorers Club of New York and of many scientific societies in the United States, England, Australia and South Africa. He has recently completed a two volume work entitled Evolution Emerging which was published in April, 1951.

Speicher's Portraits In New York Exhibit

Woodstock, June 11—In the current "Portraits in Review" show at Portraits, Inc., in New York, two outstanding contributions are Eugene Speicher's Mara and Mischa Petersham.

"Like all mature artists," according to the Art Digest, "Speicher has developed certain idioms of artistic language that are familiar in his work. In these brilliant portraits, he seems to have forsaken his trade marks, as it were, in an almost magnificence of expression, without foregoing his impeccable craftsmanship. He reveals more than the momentary aspects of the sitter's faces in interpreting sources of inner life."

Fire Is Checked

Woodstock, June 11—The Woodstock Fire Company was called last Thursday about 7 p. m. to the home of Joseph Forman to extinguish a small fire caused by the overheating of an electric stove.

Speakers Heard At Art Gallery

Woodstock, June 9—Bringing to a conclusion the childrens' art and music festival sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, the final meeting of the season on Thursday night at the Woodstock Art Gallery was highlighted by two speakers who emphasized the importance of both music and art in the life of every child. Mrs. Althea Odell, art instructor at Kingston High School and Mrs. Norma Reiner, teacher at Queens College in New York, stressed the necessity of giving a child wide art and musical experiences for the purpose of emotional outlet, fun and relaxation to be enjoyed for the rest of his life.

Mrs. Odell observed that the paintings on view were evidence of the childrens' growth in stages, from the first scribble technique in which was inherent a freedom frequently lost in their later development. In their later stages, she stated they are inclined to tighten up in an attempt to achieve perfection. At the high school level, she said that her greatest problems is to persuade them to return to the free expression they had as young children, and to refrain from copying details.

Prescribing the same freedom in the study of music, Mrs. Reiner recalled that in the past "music appreciation was an unexciting experience for a child in the schools," while "the private teacher was interested in teaching the boy or girl who could leave his mark upon the world of music."

Mrs. Reiner cited the Woodstock School Band as an example of how the music program in the schools of today has progressed, an organization "the school can well be proud of. In past summers here at Woodstock I have never ceased to get a thrill each time the band has performed. The experience that each person in the band is getting, the friends he is making, and the fun he is having will add up to never-to-be-forgotten memories long after many other experiences have faded."

In the absence of Mrs. Austin Mecklem, president, Mrs. Harold Mellin presided, and the secretary's report was read by Mrs. Edward Gurland. A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Edna Quick and to the Woodstock Artists Association for the success of the children's exhibition.

Mrs. Roland d'Albis announced the plans for the party to be given for the graduating students following the graduation exercises on Friday, June 22, at the school. The school auditorium will be decorated by the Woodstock Garden Club which has requested donations of flowers. They may be brought to the school on the day of the party, or arrangements may be made to have them picked up by calling Mrs. d'Albis.

Mrs. Margo King reported that the band has been secured for round and square dancing and that the caps and gowns for the occasion have been ordered. Mrs. Nick Fox will provide corsages for the girls and boutonnieres for the boys.

Expressions of appreciation were given to Mrs. Linda Walter, who has been teaching dancing and ballroom deportment at the school, and to Mrs. Leo Herbert, program chairman, who has obtained the excellent speakers for the meetings during the past year.

A plaque, in appreciation for the work done by Mrs. Mecklem, both in organizing and serving as president of the P.-T.A., during the past year, will be presented to her. The plaque was designed and painted by John Pike and Dave Huffine.

Philomena A. Brown Becomes the Bride Of Charles E. Link

Miss Philomena Antoinette Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Brown of Stone Ridge, became the bride of Charles Edward Link, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Christmann of Valley Stream, L. I., Sunday, June 3, at 1 p. m., in St. Peter's Church, Rosendale. The Rev. Thomas J. Gaffney of that parish officiated at the double ring ceremony.

James Sweeney was organist, while Miss Eleanor Murphy, soloist, sang Panis Angelicus and Ave Maria. The church was trimmed with white gladioli, pink and white peonies and various colored carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was made with an imported lace bodice, a double skirt of nylon tulle, and a train. She wore a half hat of matching lace, a fingertip veil, and carried a small spray of white iris and stephanotis.

Mrs. Antoinette Daniels of Long Island City was the honor attendant. Mrs. Daniels was dressed in a pink nylon net gown, and carried a spray of blue iris and pink roses.

Walter Schumacher of Brooklyn was best man. Frank Brown of Syracuse and Nicholas Brown, Jr., of Stone Ridge, both brothers of the bride, ushered.

A reception for 200 guests followed at Brown's Hilltop House, Atwood. The couple then left for a motor trip to Miami Beach and St. Petersburg, Fla. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue dress, with white accessories, and a red corsage. Upon their return the couple will make their home at 21-16 45th avenue, Long Island City.

Colonials Divide Weekend Games With Gloversville and Amsterdam

Disappointing Crowd For 'Free Night' Game

The status of Kingston's Canadian-American League franchise may have been settled with a large measure of finality Saturday night at municipal stadium.

Here was a "Free Admission Night" and just about a thousand spectators show up for the game.

Did that disappointing turnout furnish the answer for Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., directors, or will tonight's general meeting at the Stuyvesant Hotel produce the minor miracle needed to keep baseball alive in Kingston?

Week-end Split

The Colonials won Saturday's brawl with the Glovers, 12 to 9, with a big six-run, sixth inning for their sixth victory of the season. Sunday, the Amsterdam Rugmakers clipped the Kernels, 6 to 3, in Amsterdam.

Manager Joel Kern, a hustling young player-manager who has tried desperately to new life and potency in the Colonial attack, enjoyed his best week-end of the season. He pounded a double and two singles in Saturday's game and stroked three singles in Amsterdam.

One of the amusing highlights of Saturday's game was Manager Al Barillari's manipulation of his pitchers during Kingston's six-run rally.

He pulled in Guy Coleman from right field to pitch to one batter and then sent him back to the pasture where starter Al Barkus had played for the one batter. Then John Coakley came in to pitch one hitter and out he went. Demus, fourth pitcher of the inning, came on and went the rest of the way to restore a measure of sanity to the contest. Leave it to Barillari for the unexpected.

Dick Connors, Chico Alvarado and Jack Ormiston worked against against the Glovers, the Puerto Rican relieving Connors in the fifth when the visitors scored four times.

Threat In Ninth

Ormiston relieved Alvarado during a ninth inning uprising by the Glovers but only after a wave of apprehension swept through the stands. He walked two batters to force in the third run of the stanza then fanned Ernie Desperito to end the game.

In Kingston's big sixth, Red Klinger delivered a two-run single; Bob Oliner doubled, while Dennis Healey, Tony Gomez and Alvarado walked. The Glovers contributed three errors.

Kern's three hits paced the Colonials' 15 safeties, second biggest harvest of the season. Bob Oliner doubled and tripled in successive appearances and knocked in two runs. Lou Kramberg exploded a triple, and Sam Piacentino, Joe Niro and Alvarado also had two hits.

Vince Canepa was the victim Sunday in Amsterdam, although he pitched a respectable game. Steve Krall checked the Colonials with seven hits—three by Kern—and was effective in the pinches, leaving 13 runners stranded.

The Rugmakers were never headed after scoring three times in the fourth in a rather roundabout way. Two walks and a scratch single loaded the bases. Two long flies produced two runs and a walk with the bases loaded accounted for the other.

Kingston scored single markers in the sixth, eighth and ninth innings. Kern drove in a tally with a single behind walks to Bob Oliner and Dennis Healey in the sixth. Joe Canepa doubled in the eighth and completed the circuit on a wild pitch and a balk. The final marker was the result of Sam Piacentino's single, an infield error and long fly to center by Tony Gomez.

The Colonials' home schedule lists only one more game—the Thursday fadeout against the Oneonta Red Sox. This will be a twilight-night doubleheader starting at 6:30 p. m. A television set will be awarded by the management.

The Amsterdam series winds up tonight and single games are scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday in Gloversville.

Colonial Officials Offer Resignations

On the eve of tonight's crucial meeting at the Hotel Stuyvesant, J. Frederick Ertel and Addison Jones, president and general manager, respectively, of Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., announced they are ready to step down in favor of any persons or group of fans who might be willing to take over operation of the Colonial franchise in the Can-Am League.

Tonight's meeting must raise $4,000 or the Colonials will fold on Thursday, June 14, as was previously announced.

Ertel and Jones emphasized that if new front office personnel could possibly save the Colonial franchise they would be glad to tender their resignations to the board of directors tonight.

On all long shots make sure that your right shoulder is back of the left shoulder with reference to the line of aim.

That, to me, is the most important feature of the stance.

Jimmy Demaret

The same applies to the right foot. It must be slightly behind the left, along the line of aim.

This is called the closed stance.

As I wrote in the P. G. A. Teachers' Guide, for the most part the stance can be boiled down to the length of the club determining it.

As for the position of the ball, a drive should be played off the left heel.

On the fairway, the ball can be played more between the feet.

When extra backspin is required for approaching closely-trapped greens, it is advisable that the ball be played more nearly opposite the right heel.

On long shots, with longer clubs, a closed stance is used, and the ball is played off the left foot.

With medium-length clubs, the ball is played from between the feet.

On short shots with the shorter clubs, the ball is played from more of an open stance and off the right foot, which is slightly ahead of the left.

POSITION — Claude Harmon demonstrates how a drive should be played off the left heel. (NEA)

Batting—Ralph Kiner, Pirates—Hammered two homers, Nos. 14 and 15, his second round tripper coming in the 11th inning with one man aboard to give the Pirates a 5-4 win after Brooklyn had won the opener, 2-1.

Pitching—Eddie Lopat, Yankees—Spaced seven hits for his ninth victory as the Yankees beat Chicago 2-1 in the first game with the White Sox taking the second, 11-7.

Dutch Opponent Quits on Robinson

Antwerp, Belgium, June 11 (AP)—Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson has won fights just about every way possible but he had a new experience yesterday when Jan De Bruin took a walk from the ring in the eighth round.

The Dutchman said he left the ring because Robinson apparently didn't put forth his best efforts when he had his opponent cornered in the sixth and seventh rounds.

"I went in to fight a ten-round contest," said De Bruin, "and Robinson tried to make it look easy by letting me off when he had me trapped on the corner."

Robinson, winning the scheduled 10-round bout on a technical knockout, said he let De Bruin off lightly because he needed the workout for his championship fight against Randolph Turpin in London July 10.

New York, June 11 (AP)—Nancy Chaffee, 22-year-old National Indoor tennis champion from Ventura, Calif., and Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh Pirates' home-run hitter, announced their engagement last night at a private party.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Canadian-American League attendance figures for the first 31 days of the 1951 season were 22,836 under the 1950 total for a comparable period, according to the president's office.

Broken down, the statistics reveal some interesting angles and stress the uphill struggle the Class C circuit has been experiencing against a steady decline in patronage.

Quickly, the Colonials furnish 4,000 of the deficit, their 31-day attendance of 3,887 (home games only) being that much under the lowest figure in 1951.

Transfer of the Schenectady franchise to the Eastern League was a body blow for the Can-Am. The Bluejays attracted 15,936 in the first 31 days, (11 home dates) for an average of 1,448 per game.

Rome has slumped from 15,393 in 1950 to 9,402 this year. Amsterdam has been most consistent with 10,926 last year and 9,465 in the current campaign.

Gloversville, shaky from the outset like Kingston, has suffered a 5,000 loss, from 12,890 to 7,895. Pittsfield with two extra playing dates in the 31-day period, is the only club to show an increase, from 7,696 to 11,088. Oneonta is nearly 2,000 admissions off last year's pace, with 7,865 compared to 1951's total of 9,597.

• Kingston's Miserable Showing:

Kingston's 3,887 represents a daily average attendance of 353. That is a rather shabby and pathetic showing for a city with such noble baseball tradition. If you desire a further breakdown on the gruesome Colonial statistics, here they are: Adults, 3,266; children, 471; ladies' nights, 150.

Pittsfield and Amsterdam are running a close battle for daily average honors to date, the Electrics shading the Rugmakers, 792 to 728. Gloversville has been drawing at a 607 clip; Oneonta, 524; and Rome, 627.

In recent seasons, the Can-Am League lost important bastions in Schenectady, Utica and the Canadian cities of Quebec and Three Rivers. All clubs admittedly lost "important money" in 1950, but the league re-organized with six teams in 1951 and hoped for a better year. In this nationwide struggle for the survival of minor league baseball, Kingston's contribution has been a sorry one.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Billy McCathy, former Highand High School pitching ace, recently completed a brilliant career with Ithaca College.. Billy was undefeated in collegiate circles, with 19 straight triumphs, until the Sampson Air Base nine upended him, 4 to 3. He was also a standout batter with a .441 average. Could the Colonials use him? Signs of the times and warning to semi-pro promoters who may be harboring dreams of taking over municipal stadium, if the Colonials fold: A Memorial Day game between the Union City Reds and the famous Bushwicks drew only 451 paid admissions, and the Bushwicks got $400 guarantee! Len Fannelli, a popular favorite in the early days of midget racing in Woodstock, later earned national fame, is currently driving Tom Thumb cars on Connecticut tracks. It's Major Len Fannelli now. Mickey Steltz of Sickler's Delivery softball team is headed for the Army. Michael Erceg booking games for Broomes, the home club in Saugerties. Strikeout king of the DUSO village baseball league was George Ulrich of Liberty High. In his first 33 innings, Ulrich fanned 65 batters. Frank Neff, one half of the famous Neff brothers of Fred Baumgarten's pre-war Huron Indians of Stone Ridge, was recently appointed manager of the Middletown territory for the National Biscuit Company. He went to Middletown from Paramus, N. J., where he was one of the pioneers in Little League baseball.

An incident during a game between Lanesville A.C. and Prattsville points up the sportsmanship of mountain town baseball fans and players. Miss Arlene Schoonmaker, a Phoenicia fan, was hit in the face by a line drive off the bat of the Prattsville catcher. The young lady was rushed to a doctor's office in Phoenicia with a badly bruised face and nose. The managers of the two teams decided on the spot that the entire day's collection should be turned over to Miss Schoonmaker. The players agreed and $20 was turned over to her. A pretty nice gesture, we'd say.

The Colonial situation reminds us of the old proverb: Heroism consists in hanging on one minute longer."

Koenig Sets Maroon Record

Section 9 (DUSO League) was virtually shut out in the intersectional track and field competition Saturday at West Point, but Frank "Yip" Koenig of Kingston High set a new Maroon record with a leap of 5 feet 10½ inches in the high jump. It was good for a fifth place tie. The DUSO's other points came in a fifth place in the medley relay. Koenig broke the old Kingston High School record of 5 feet 9½ inches set by John Weber in 1949.

DiVicenzo Scores Plus-40 to Capture Palm Beach Round Robin Tournament

Ferrier Second; Mangrum Third

New Rochelle, June 11—Robert DeVicenzo today was counting the biggest golf purse he ever won—$3,000—and giving thanks that the luck of the pairings in the final round of the Palm Beach Round Robin tournament found him matching strokes with three players who couldn't take advantage of his own not-so-hot game.

The big Argentinian won the event with a point total of plus 40, an even dozen points better than second place Jim Ferrier. But on the 11th hole of the final round of the five-round event, Ferrier had overcome a 19 point deficit and led by three strokes.

DeVincenzo shot a 75 yesterday, three over par for the Wykagyl Country Club course and the only one of his five rounds over 68, but the other members of his foursome were as bad, or worse. Jack Burke, Jr., and Fred Haas, Jr., also had 75's and Chick Harbert, "pigeon" of the tournament, had a 79.

Locke Whipped

DeVincenzo picked up only four points yesterday, all at Harbert's expense, while Ferrier, shooting a snappy 69, picked up 11 points, although play in a better-scoring foursome. He met Al Brosch and Bobby Locke, each with a 72, and Clayton Heafner with a 74.

Locke, the man to beat before the tournament started, was well beaten. After leading at the end of the first round and being in fourth place at the start of yesterday's final round, he wound up a tie for sixth with plus 14.

Ferrier won $2,000 for finishing second. The remainder of the field, with individual prize money and point total was as follows:

Lloyd Mangrum plus 26 $1,500.
Jack Burke Jr., plus 20 $1,250.
Cary Middlecoff plus 15 $1,000.

Colonials Divide Weekend Games With Gloversville and Amsterdam

Disappointing Crowd For 'Free Night' Game

The status of Kingston's Canadian-American League franchise may have been settled with a large measure of finality Saturday night at municipal stadium.

Here was a "Free Admission Night" and just about a thousand spectators show up for the game.

Did that disappointing turnout furnish the answer for Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., directors, or will tonight's general meeting at the Stuyvesant Hotel produce the minor miracle needed to keep baseball alive in Kingston?

Week-end Split

The Colonials won Saturday's brawl with the Glovers, 12 to 9, with a big six-run, sixth inning for their sixth victory of the season. Sunday, the Amsterdam Rugmakers clipped the Kernels, 6 to 3, in Amsterdam.

Manager Joel Kern, a hustling young player-manager who has tried desperately to new life and potency in the Colonial attack, enjoyed his best week-end of the season. He pounded a double and two singles in Saturday's game and stroked three singles in Amsterdam.

One of the amusing highlights of Saturday's game was Manager Al Barillari's manipulation of his pitchers during Kingston's six-run rally.

He pulled in Guy Coleman from right field to pitch to one batter and then sent him back to the pasture where starter Al Barkus had played for the one batter. Then John Coakley came in to pitch one hitter and out he went. Demus, fourth pitcher of the inning, came on and went the rest of the way to restore a measure of sanity to the contest. Leave it to Barillari for the unexpected.

Dick Connors, Chico Alvarado and Jack Ormiston worked against against the Glovers, the Puerto Rican relieving Connors in the fifth when the visitors scored four times.

Threat In Ninth

Ormiston relieved Alvarado during a ninth inning uprising by the Glovers but only after a wave of apprehension swept through the stands. He walked two batters to force in the third run of the stanza then fanned Ernie Desperito to end the game.

In Kingston's big sixth, Red Klinger delivered a two-run single; Bob Oliner doubled, while Dennis Healey, Tony Gomez and Alvarado walked. The Glovers contributed three errors.

Kern's three hits paced the Colonials' 15 safeties, second biggest harvest of the season. Bob Oliner doubled and tripled in successive appearances and knocked in two runs. Lou Kramberg exploded a triple, and Sam Piacentino, Joe Niro and Alvarado also had two hits.

Vince Canepa was the victim Sunday in Amsterdam, although he pitched a respectable game. Steve Krall checked the Colonials with seven hits—three by Kern—and was effective in the pinches, leaving 13 runners stranded.

The Rugmakers were never headed after scoring three times in the fourth in a rather roundabout way. Two walks and a scratch single loaded the bases. Two long flies produced two runs and a walk with the bases loaded accounted for the other.

Kingston scored single markers in the sixth, eighth and ninth innings. Kern drove in a tally with a single behind walks to Bob Oliner and Dennis Healey in the sixth. Joe Canepa doubled in the eighth and completed the circuit on a wild pitch and a balk. The final marker was the result of Sam Piacentino's single, an infield error and long fly to center by Tony Gomez.

The Colonials' home schedule lists only one more game—the Thursday fadeout against the Oneonta Red Sox. This will be a twilight-night doubleheader starting at 6:30 p. m. A television set will be awarded by the management.

The Amsterdam series winds up tonight and single games are scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday in Gloversville.

Colonial Officials Offer Resignations

On the eve of tonight's crucial meeting at the Hotel Stuyvesant, J. Frederick Ertel and Addison Jones, president and general manager, respectively, of Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., announced they are ready to step down in favor of any persons or group of fans who might be willing to take over operation of the Colonial franchise in the Can-Am League.

Tonight's meeting must raise $4,000 or the Colonials will fold on Thursday, June 14, as was previously announced.

Ertel and Jones emphasized that if new front office personnel could possibly save the Colonial franchise they would be glad to tender their resignations to the board of directors tonight.

On all long shots make sure that your right shoulder is back of the left shoulder with reference to the line of aim.

That, to me, is the most important feature of the stance.

Jimmy Demaret

The same applies to the right foot. It must be slightly behind the left, along the line of aim.

This is called the closed stance.

As I wrote in the P. G. A. Teachers' Guide, for the most part the stance can be boiled down to the length of the club determining it.

As for the position of the ball, a drive should be played off the left heel.

On the fairway, the ball can be played more between the feet.

When extra backspin is required for approaching closely-trapped greens, it is advisable that the ball be played more nearly opposite the right heel.

On long shots, with longer clubs, a closed stance is used, and the ball is played off the left foot.

With medium-length clubs, the ball is played from between the feet.

On short shots with the shorter clubs, the ball is played from more of an open stance and off the right foot, which is slightly ahead of the left.

The next card of races is scheduled Friday night.

Batting—Ralph Kiner, Pirates—Hammered two homers, Nos. 14 and 15, his second round tripper coming in the 11th inning with one man aboard to give the Pirates a 5-4 win after Brooklyn had won the opener, 2-1.

Pitching—Eddie Lopat, Yankees—Spaced seven hits for his ninth victory as the Yankees beat Chicago 2-1 in the first game with the White Sox taking the second, 11-7.

Dutch Opponent Quits on Robinson

Antwerp, Belgium, June 11 (AP)—Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson has won fights just about every way possible but he had a new experience yesterday when Jan De Bruin took a walk from the ring in the eighth round.

The Dutchman said he left the ring because Robinson apparently didn't put forth his best efforts when he had his opponent cornered in the sixth and seventh rounds.

"I went in to fight a ten-round contest," said De Bruin, "and Robinson tried to make it look easy by letting me off when he had me trapped on the corner."

Robinson, winning the scheduled 10-round bout on a technical knockout, said he let De Bruin off lightly because he needed the workout for his championship fight against Randolph Turpin in London July 10.

At Last

New York, June 11 (AP)—Nancy Chaffee, 22-year-old National Indoor tennis champion from Ventura, Calif., and Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh Pirates' home-run hitter, announced their engagement last night at a private party.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Canadian-American League attendance figures for the first 31 days of the 1951 season were 22,836 under the 1950 total for a comparable period, according to the president's office.

Broken down, the statistics reveal some interesting angles and stress the uphill struggle the Class C circuit has been experiencing against a steady decline in patronage.

Quickly, the Colonials furnish 4,000 of the deficit, their 31-day attendance of 3,887 (home games only) being that much under the lowest figure in 1951.

Transfer of the Schenectady franchise to the Eastern League was a body blow for the Can-Am. The Bluejays attracted 15,936 in the first 31 days, (11 home dates) for an average of 1,448 per game.

Rome has slumped from 15,393 in 1950 to 9,402 this year. Amsterdam has been most consistent with 10,926 last year and 9,465 in the current campaign.

Gloversville, shaky from the outset like Kingston, has suffered a 5,000 loss, from 12,890 to 7,895. Pittsfield with two extra playing dates in the 31-day period, is the only club to show an increase, from 7,696 to 11,088. Oneonta is nearly 2,000 admissions off last year's pace, with 7,865 compared to 1951's total of 9,597.

• Kingston's Miserable Showing:

Kingston's 3,887 represents a daily average attendance of 353. That is a rather shabby and pathetic showing for a city with such noble baseball tradition. If you desire a further breakdown on the gruesome Colonial statistics, here they are: Adults, 3,266; children, 471; ladies' nights, 150.

Pittsfield and Amsterdam are running a close battle for daily average honors to date, the Electrics shading the Rugmakers, 792 to 728. Gloversville has been drawing at a 607 clip; Oneonta, 524; and Rome, 627.

In recent seasons, the Can-Am League lost important bastions in Schenectady, Utica and the Canadian cities of Quebec and Three Rivers. All clubs admittedly lost "important money" in 1950, but the league re-organized with six teams in 1951 and hoped for a better year. In this nationwide struggle for the survival of minor league baseball, Kingston's contribution has been a sorry one.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Billy McCathy, former Highand High School pitching ace, recently completed a brilliant career with Ithaca College.. Billy was undefeated in collegiate circles, with 19 straight triumphs, until the Sampson Air Base nine upended him, 4 to 3. He was also a standout batter with a .441 average. Could the Colonials use him? Signs of the times and warning to semi-pro promoters who may be harboring dreams of taking over municipal stadium, if the Colonials fold: A Memorial Day game between the Union City Reds and the famous Bushwicks drew only 451 paid admissions, and the Bushwicks got $400 guarantee! Len Fannelli, a popular favorite in the early days of midget racing in Woodstock, later earned national fame, is currently driving Tom Thumb cars on Connecticut tracks. It's Major Len Fannelli now. Mickey Steltz of Sickler's Delivery softball team is headed for the Army. Michael Erceg booking games for Broomes, the home club in Saugerties. Strikeout king of the DUSO village baseball league was George Ulrich of Liberty High. In his first 33 innings, Ulrich fanned 65 batters. Frank Neff, one half of the famous Neff brothers of Fred Baumgarten's pre-war Huron Indians of Stone Ridge, was recently appointed manager of the Middletown territory for the National Biscuit Company. He went to Middletown from Paramus, N. J., where he was one of the pioneers in Little League baseball.

An incident during a game between Lanesville A.C. and Prattsville points up the sportsmanship of mountain town baseball fans and players. Miss Arlene Schoonmaker, a Phoenicia fan, was hit in the face by a line drive off the bat of the Prattsville catcher. The young lady was rushed to a doctor's office in Phoenicia with a badly bruised face and nose. The managers of the two teams decided on the spot that the entire day's collection should be turned over to Miss Schoonmaker. The players agreed and $20 was turned over to her. A pretty nice gesture, we'd say.

The Colonial situation reminds us of the old proverb: Heroism consists in hanging on one minute longer."

Koenig Sets Maroon Record

Section 9 (DUSO League) was virtually shut out in the intersectional track and field competition Saturday at West Point, but Frank "Yip" Koenig of Kingston High set a new Maroon record with a leap of 5 feet 10½ inches in the high jump. It was good for a fifth place tie. The DUSO's other points came in a fifth place in the medley relay. Koenig broke the old Kingston High School record of 5 feet 9½ inches set by John Weber in 1949.

DiVicenzo Scores Plus-40 to Capture Palm Beach Round Robin Tournament

Ferrier Second; Mangrum Third

New Rochelle, June 11—Robert DeVicenzo today was counting the biggest golf purse he ever won—$3,000—and giving thanks that the luck of the pairings in the final round of the Palm Beach Round Robin tournament found him matching strokes with three players who couldn't take advantage of his own not-so-hot game.

The big Argentinian won the event with a point total of plus 40, an even dozen points better than second place Jim Ferrier. But on the 11th hole of the final round of the five-round event, Ferrier had overcome a 19 point deficit and led by three strokes.

DeVincenzo shot a 75 yesterday, three over par for the Wykagyl Country Club course and the only one of his five rounds over 68, but the other members of his foursome were as bad, or worse. Jack Burke, Jr., and Fred Haas, Jr., also had 75's and Chick Harbert, "pigeon" of the tournament, had a 79.

Locke Whipped

DeVincenzo picked up only four points yesterday, all at Harbert's expense, while Ferrier, shooting a snappy 69, picked up 11 points, although play in a better-scoring foursome. He met Al Brosch and Bobby Locke, each with a 72, and Clayton Heafner with a 74.

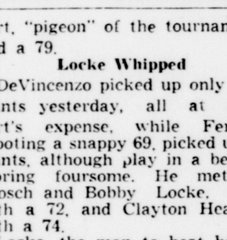

Locke, the man to beat before the tournament started, was well beaten. After leading at the end of the first round and being in fourth place at the start of yesterday's final round, he wound up a tie for sixth with plus 14.

Ferrier won $2,000 for finishing second. The remainder of the field, with individual prize money and point total was as follows:

Lloyd Mangrum plus 26 $1,500.
Jack Burke Jr., plus 20 $1,250.
Cary Middlecoff plus 15 $1,000.
Johnny Palmer plus 14 $850.
Bobby Locke plus 14 $850.
Henry Ransom plus 13 $700.
Fred Haas Jr., plus 5 $650.
Clayton Heafner minus 8 $600.
Herman Barron minus 14 $550.
Jimmy Demaret minus 25 $450.
Al Brosch minus 25 $450.
Ed Oliver minus 27 $400.
Chick Harbert minus 36 $400.
Chandler Harper minus 40 $400.

Ferrier's 69 yesterday put him in a tie with DeVicenzo for medal honors with 347 for the five rounds.

Firecrackers, Then Stengel, Explode And a Crack About a Busher

Chicago, June 11 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees has released some verbal fireworks about American League fans who gleefully set off real ones while his team is playing.

The Yankees left Comiskey Park yesterday after taking three decisions in a four game set with the league-leading White Sox which drew 130,720 fans in three days. Stengel talked as if he thought his boys were lucky to escape with their lives.

"Mickey Mantle, my 19 year old outfielder, was peppered with fire-crackers here Friday night," Stengel said. "Some stupid clown also tossed a whiskey bottle out of the stands near him.

"Suppose one of those fire-crackers exploded right at Mantle's eye level or a bottle hit him in the head. A foolish stunt could cut short a man's career or even cost him his eyesight."

He mentioned a stone throwing episode in Detroit, too, and declared:

"I'll pull the Yankees off the field if these things keep happening. Maybe when I do the ball park owners will hire the 25 additional cops needed to keep order."

Lane's Rebuttal

Frank Lane, general manager of the White Sox, had a caustic answer for Stengel.

"Casey has a large job on his hands managing the Yankees," Lane said. "We'll take care of policing the ball park.

"We had a triple police force all three days. When you have more than 130,000 people in the park in three days, you can't have a policeman looking over the shoulder of every small boy in the ball park.

"We don't like that sort of thing any better than he does, but I think we did a good job handling the large crowds and we've had lots of compliments on it."

While he was at it, Lane took another crack at Stengel because the Yankee relief hurlers refused to take advantage of the new automobile which the Sox management furnishes for the pitcher to take the long trip from the bull pen to the pitchers' mound.

"He thought that was a bush league idea," Lane snorted. "Well, some things in New York are bush league, too. Maybe Mr. Stengel is one of them."

THE SCOREBOARD

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The cooled-off Chicago White Sox are all set to sizzle again. Why not? Aren't they shoving off today on a two-week swing of the East—the land of free and plenty?

New York, Boston, Washington and Philadelphia have been cities of paradise for the dazzling White Sox. Everything the American League leaders have touched there has turned to gold. They've still to taste defeat.

The Sox gave their delirious fans a terrific scare over the week-end, losing three straight to the Yankees. A near-capacity Comiskey Park Sunday crowd of 52,054 was resigned to a fourth straight loss when the Yankees zoomed into a 4-0 second game lead after winning a 2-1 opener.

The Sox stormed back, however, coming from behind twice, to win the nightcap, 11-7, and gain a precious split. Thus the Sox start East with a two and a half game lead over the stubborn defending champion New Yorkers.

Red Sox Rally

Boston's resurging Red Sox fought back into contention, sweeping two games from Cleveland, 9-6 and 8-2, to take undisputed possession of third place. They trail the Sox by five and a half lengths. Detroit downed the Athletics twice in Philadelphia, 11-7 and 9-5 while Washington and St. Louis split. The Browns won the first, 10-9 and the Nats took the second, 3-2.

Brooklyn retained its five and a half game advantage in the National, dividing a pair with Pittsburgh. The Dodgers eked out a 2-1 win in the opener and the Pirates copped the 11-inning nightcap, 5-4.

Maglie Stopped

Two streaks were snapped as Chicago held the New York Giants even in a twin bill. After the Giants had won the first game, 6-1, for their fifth in a row over Chicago, the Cubs came back to gain their first triumph over New York, 7-3. They added insult to injury by smashing Sal Maglie's nine-game winning streak.

St. Louis moved within a point of the second place Cincinnati Reds, nipping the Braves in Boston, 5-4. The Reds, scheduled to play two in Philadelphia, were washed out by rain.

Handcuffed with seven hits by Eddie Lopat in the opener, the White Sox hammered six Yankee pitchers for 14 hits in the nightcap.

Randy Gumpert, who pitched the last three and two thirds innings, registered his fifth victory without a defeat.

Two dozen hits plus four errors by Cleveland Shortstop Ray Boone helped the Red Sox beat the Indians twice. Two miscues by Boone accounted for five unearned Bosox runs in the opener.

Grand Circuit Opens

Westbury, N. Y., June 11 (AP)—The Grand Circuit opens a three-week stand at Roosevelt Raceway tonight with $300,000 to be distributed to horsemen before the trotters and pacers move on to Goshen, N. Y. Highlights of the "Roaring Grand" will be the $20,000 Benjamin W. Downing Memorial pace, $20,000 David H. McConnell Memorial trot, $7,500 Old Country trot for three-year-old fillies, $10,000 Old Westbury for three-year-old trotters and a pair of stakes for two-year-old trotters.

Author of Book

William W. Michael, son of the late Dr. Myron J. Michael, former superintendent of Kingston schools, is the author of a book, "Dry-Fly Trout Fishing," recently published by McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc., of New York. William Michael has been a professor at the California Institute of Technology for the past 30 years.

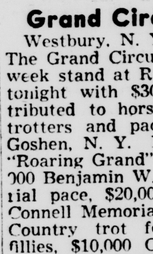

Smashed $350 Window

Cambridge, Mass., June 11 (AP)—Four tuxedo-clad youths—identified by police as Harvard students returning from a Brookline debutante dance—were arrested yesterday on charges of shattering a $350 plate glass window in a book store. Police said they seized the four shortly after the glass crashed in a Boylston street law book exchange store.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Good Defense Based On Slick Deduction

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

East made an unusual defensive play in the hand shown today. He could have made a comfortable, routine lead to make declarer ruff. Instead he made the most uncomfortable possible lead—which happened to be the only way to set the contract. Let's see how he worked it out in his mind.

West opened the three of clubs on the theory that he was not going to get many chances to lead. If his partner and dummy both had broken club strength, the club lead might well be the decisive move of the defense.

As it happened, the opening lead did no particular good. Dummy played low East incautiously put up the ace, and South dropped the deuce. East realized that South must still have the jack of clubs (otherwise he would have played one of dummy's high clubs) and that the jack must be alone since West's lead was obviously a fourth-best choice.

East laid down the ace of diamonds and continued the suit, South ruffing. Declarer returned the jack of spades, knocking out East's king. East then led another diamond, forcing South to ruff again.

South next led the ten of spades, knocking out East's ace. And now East was at the crossroads.

If he led back another diamond—a very comfortable play to make—South would ruff, draw the last trump, take the jack of clubs, then lead to the ace of hearts and get two discards on the king and queen of clubs. How did East know this?

East knew that South had started with only two clubs and one diamond. His ten remaining cards were either seven spades and three hearts or six spades and four hearts. The 6-4 case was improbable and unbeatable. Hence East had to assume that South held exactly what he did hold.

It would not be very difficult to find the right defense with all the cards in sight. Since East assumed the location of all the cards, it was equally easy for him to find the correct lead—the nine of hearts.

Now declarer was bound to lose a heart trick, and the contract was set one trick.

Airlines Willing To Grant $1,800 Hike for Pilots

New York, June 11 (AP)—American Airlines, Inc., says it is willing to pay its co-pilots, who now average $6,500 a year, an increase of $1,800 a year.

The increase was recommended May 25 by an emergency board appointed by President Truman last Jan. 13 to forestall a strike.

American said in a letter to the President yesterday that the airline could not agree with all the board's recommendations but was willing to accept them.

The letter said the airline was "impressed with the view that the members of the board are competent, fair-minded men."

The emergency board also recommended furlough pay for three months after a layoff; higher vacation and sick leave pay, and a guarantee of at least one hour's pay for irregular flying.

The board turned down a request of the Airline Pilots Association for a cut in the present monthly maximum of 85 hours flying time without a cut in earnings.

In Chicago, there was no comment from the Airline Pilots' Association on the board's recommendations.

The parties have 30 days in which to consider the report.

Says MIG Matches U. S.

New York, June 11 (AP)—A 31-year-old jet squadron commander from Woodbridge, N. J., says the Communist MIK-15 jet fighter is "as good as anything" we have in Korea. The only thing the Red pilots lack, adds Maj. Theodore J. Urban, is training in tactics. Urban, a veteran of 98 missions in Europe in World War 2 and 136 Korean sorties, arrived at LaGuardia Field yesterday for a short leave before being reassigned Thursday in Washington. Urban said anti-aircraft fire in some places in Korea was as heavy as it was in Germany during the last war. "The war in Korea is just as tough as World War 2 due to logistics," he said.

Three Autos Damaged

Firecrackers, Then Stengel, Explode And a Crack About a Busher

Chicago, June 11 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees has released some verbal fireworks about American League fans who gleefully set off real ones while his team is playing.

The Yankees left Comiskey Park yesterday after taking three decisions in a four game set with the league-leading White Sox which drew 130,720 fans in three days. Stengel talked as if he thought his boys were lucky to escape with their lives.

"Mickey Mantle, my 19 year old outfielder, was peppered with fire-crackers here Friday night," Stengel said. "Some stupid clown also tossed a whiskey bottle out of the stands near him.

"Suppose one of those fire-crackers exploded right at Mantle's eye level or a bottle hit him in the head. A foolish stunt could cut short a man's career or even cost him his eyesight."

He mentioned a stone throwing episode in Detroit, too, and declared:

"I'll pull the Yankees off the field if these things keep happening. Maybe when I do the ball park owners will hire the 25 additional cops needed to keep order."

Lane's Rebuttal

Frank Lane, general manager of the White Sox, had a caustic answer for Stengel.

"Casey has a large job on his hands managing the Yankees," Lane said. "We'll take care of policing the ball park.

"We had a triple police force all three days. When you have more than 130,000 people in the park in three days, you can't have a policeman looking over the shoulder of every small boy in the ball park.

"We don't like that sort of thing any better than he does, but I think we did a good job handling the large crowds and we've had lots of compliments on it."

While he was at it, Lane took another crack at Stengel because the Yankee relief hurlers refused to take advantage of the new automobile which the Sox management furnishes for the pitcher to take the long trip from the bull pen to the pitchers' mound.

"He thought that was a bush league idea," Lane snorted. "Well, some things in New York are bush league, too. Maybe Mr. Stengel is one of them."

THE SCOREBOARD

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The cooled-off Chicago White Sox are all set to sizzle again. Why not? Aren't they shoving off today on a two-week swing of the East—the land of free and plenty?

New York, Boston, Washington and Philadelphia have been cities of paradise for the dazzling White Sox. Everything the American League leaders have touched there has turned to gold. They've still to taste defeat.

The Sox gave their delirious fans a terrific scare over the week-end, losing three straight to the Yankees. A near-capacity Comiskey Park Sunday crowd of 52,054 was resigned to a fourth straight loss when the Yankees zoomed into a 4-0 second game lead after winning a 2-1 opener.

The Sox stormed back, however, coming from behind twice, to win the nightcap, 11-7, and gain a precious split. Thus the Sox start East with a two and a half game lead over the stubborn defending champion New Yorkers.

Red Sox Rally

Boston's resurging Red Sox fought back into contention, sweeping two games from Cleveland, 9-6 and 8-2, to take undisputed possession of third place; They trail the Sox by five and a half lengths. Detroit downed the Athletics twice in Philadelphia, 11-7 and 9-5 while Washington and St. Louis split. The Browns won the first, 10-9 and the Nats took the second, 3-2.

Brooklyn retained its five and a half game advantage in the National, dividing a pair with Pittsburgh. The Dodgers eked out a 2-1 win in the opener and the Pirates copped the 11-inning nightcap, 5-4.

Maglie Stopped

Two streaks were snapped as Chicago held the New York Giants even in a twin bill. After the Giants had won the first game, 6-1, for their fifth in a row over Chicago, the Cubs came back to gain their first triumph over New York, 7-3. They added insult to injury by smashing Sal Maglie's nine-game winning streak.

St. Louis moved within a point of the second place Cincinnati Reds, nipping the Braves in Boston, 5-4. The Reds, scheduled to play two in Philadelphia, were washed out by rain.

Handcuffed with seven hits by Eddie Lopat in the opener, the White Sox hammered six Yankee pitchers for 14 hits in the nightcap.

Randy Gumpert, who pitched the last three and two thirds innings, registered his fifth victory without a defeat.

Two dozen hits plus four errors by Cleveland Shortstop Ray Boone helped the Red Sox beat the Indians twice. Two miscues by Boone accounted for five unearned Bosox runs in the opener.

Grand Circuit Opens

Westbury, N. Y., June 11 (AP)—The Grand Circuit opens a three-week stand at Roosevelt Raceway tonight with $300,000 to be distributed to horsemen before the trotters and pacers move on to Goshen, N. Y. Highlights of the "Roaring Grand" will be the $20,000 Benjamin W. Downing Memorial pace, $20,000 David H. McConnell Memorial trot, $7,500 Old Country trot for three-year-old fillies, $10,000 Old Westbury for three-year-old trotters and a pair of stakes for two-year-old trotters.

Michael, former superintendent of Kingston schools, is the author of a book, "Dry-Fly Trout Fishing," recently published by McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc., of New York. William Michael has been a professor at the California Institute of Technology for the past 30 years.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Good Defense Based On Slick Deduction

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

East made an unusual defensive play in the hand shown today. He could have made a comfortable, routine lead to make declarer ruff. Instead he made the most uncomfortable possible lead—which happened to be the only way to set the contract. Let's see how he worked it out in his mind.

West opened the three of clubs on the theory that he was not going to get many chances to lead. If his partner and dummy both had broken club strength, the club lead might well be the decisive move of the defense.

As it happened, the opening lead did no particular good. Dummy played low East incautiously put up the ace, and South dropped the deuce. East realized that South must still have the jack of clubs (otherwise he would have played one of dummy's high clubs) and that the jack must be alone since West's lead was obviously a fourth-best choice.

East laid down the ace of diamonds and continued the suit, South ruffing. Declarer returned the jack of spades, knocking out East's king. East then led another diamond, forcing South to ruff again.

South next led the ten of spades, knocking out East's ace. And now East was at the crossroads.

If he led back another diamond—a very comfortable play to make—South would ruff, draw the last trump, take the jack of clubs, then lead to the ace of hearts and get two discards on the king and queen of clubs. How did East know this?

East knew that South had started with only two clubs and one diamond. His ten remaining cards were either seven spades and three hearts or six spades and four hearts. The 6-4 case was improbable and unbeatable. Hence East had to assume that South held exactly what he did hold.

It would not be very difficult to find the right defense with all the cards in sight. Since East assumed the location of all the cards, it was equally easy for him to find the correct lead—the nine of hearts.

Now declarer was bound to lose a heart trick, and the contract was set one trick.

Airlines Willing To Grant $1,800 Hike for Pilots

New York, June 11 (AP)—American Airlines, Inc., says it is willing to pay its co-pilots, who now average $6,500 a year, an increase of $1,800 a year.

The increase was recommended May 25 by an emergency board appointed by President Truman last Jan. 13 to forestall a strike.

American said in a letter to the President yesterday that the airline could not agree with all the board's recommendations but was willing to accept them.

The letter said the airline was "impressed with the view that the members of the board are competent, fair-minded men."

The emergency board also recommended furlough pay for three months after a layoff; higher vacation and sick leave pay, and a guarantee of at least one hour's pay for irregular flying.

The board turned down a request of the Airline Pilots Association for a cut in the present monthly maximum of 85 hours flying time without a cut in earnings.

In Chicago, there was no comment from the Airline Pilots' Association on the board's recommendations.

The parties have 30 days in which to consider the report.

Says MIG Matches U. S.

New York, June 11 (AP)—A 31-year-old jet squadron commander from Woodbridge, N. J., says the Communist MIK-15 jet fighter is "as good as anything" we have in Korea. The only thing the Red pilots lack, adds Maj. Theodore J. Urban, is training in tactics. Urban, a veteran of 98 missions in Europe in World War 2 and 136 Korean sorties, arrived at La-Guardia Field yesterday for a short leave before being reassigned Thursday in Washington. Urban said anti-aircraft fire in some places in Korea was as heavy as it was in Germany during the last war. "The war in Korea is just as tough as World War 2 due to logistics," he said.

Three Autos Damaged

Montville, Conn., June 11 (AP)—A series of rear-end crashes on Trading Cove Hill damaged three automobiles last night. One of them, reported state police, was almost a complete wreck. It was driven by a 40-year-old Ledyard man, Frank J. Wreck.

any support from the Chinese Nationalist government.

Dr. C. M. Chen, Chinese Nationalist minister, supported Tsiang's comments.

William Loeb, who is president of the American China Policy Association, said at Manchester, N. H., Saturday night that any administration demands for a China lobby inquiry are "just plain bluffing."

Loeb said Secretary of State Acheson "knows as well as anyone that instead of the people he is trying to smear, it is he who is the guilty one." Acheson told senators last week the State Department has a thick file of information about the China lobby, but that most of it is hearsay.

"If I were in Acheson's shoes I would not be too anxious for an investigation of the American China Policy Association," Loeb added.

Directors Named

Loeb said the association directors included Rep. Walter H. Judd (R.-Minn.), Clare Booth Luce, former GOP congresswoman from Connecticut, the Rev. William C. Kernan, Protestant Episcopal minister of Scarsdale, N. Y., former Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S.J., and A. Philip Randolph, head of the Pullman Porters Union.

"These everyday members of the American China Policy Association have pitted their small strength against the billions the Washington government has available," he asserted.

In the Senate, no one seemed sure who would conduct the inquiry if it is ordered. Chairman Russell (D.-Ga.) of the MacArthur investigation said it looked like a job for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) of that group, however, eyed a big backlog of work and showed little relish for the assignment.

Man Rescued, Fear

turn, it was said, when their craft struck a reef and was disabled.

At low water this morning, the sunken "The Jack" was located and marked for the purposes of a coast guard inquiry into the sinking.

Some party boat skippers who "fished" the waters between Plum Island and Montauk Point yesterday said that "it was acting up a bit, but it wasn't too bad."

"The Jack," a 35-foot party boat, left Niantic, Conn., between 8 and 9 a. m. Sunday carrying six fishermen, Thorson, Schwartz and Schwartz's 10-year-old son, Richard.

Besides the Lombardi's the only other known fishermen was Al Halzinger of (196 Kensington avenue) Meriden. The identities of the other three fishermen were not immediately available.

Vincent Lombardi was found clinging to what appeared to be the top of The Jack's pilot house.

At Milford, Mrs. Ryan said the "Cindy" was scheduled to leave Montauk harbor at 6 a. m. yesterday and was due at Milford harbor around noon. She telephoned the alarm to the coast guard at 11 p. m.

Seek Missing Girl

Local police have been asked by state police at Margaretville to assist in locating a missing girl who may be in this area. The girl, reported missing from Margaretville since 11:30 p. m., June 9, was identified as June Hadden, 15, four feet 11 inches tall, with brown hair and blue eyes. When last seen she was wearing a red flower print dress, white blouse, black and white saddle shoes. She may be with an 18-year-old boy driving a black Plymouth sedan, the report stated.

Wedemeyer Backs

His testimony indicates that he derived that information from an official radiogram dated 7 December 1945, dispatched from MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo after MacArthur-Spruance-Wedemeyer had conferred concerning projected United States assistance to the Nationalist government in China.

Paragraph Quoted

"The secretary quoted a paragraph of that radiogram as follows—This is the last paragraph of that particular radiogram, gentlemen, and I quote:

"'It is suggested that the United States assistance to China, as outlined above, be made available as a basis for negotiation by the American ambassador to bring together and to effect a compromise between the major opposing groups in order to promote a unified democratic China.'

"The secretary of state, Acheson, laid great stress upon the fact that this above recommended action was the policy which General Marshall was sent to China to try to effectuate."

"The foregoing," Wedemeyer said, "unquestionably would lead to the interpretation that I concurred in, and in fact recommended, the formulation of a coalition government in China involving the Nationalists and Communists.

"This interpretation is absolutely incorrect.

"I never believed such a government possible.

"The paragraph quoted by Secretary Acheson was taken out of context from a message which recommended courses of action to be taken to consolidate and strengthen the position of the Nationalist government in China."

HST Will Address

James Carey, C.I.O. secretary-treasurer, said under present emergency conditions, meat producers are "racketeering."

Carey and Fleming debated the future of the defense production act on Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's (NBC) television program.

The Senate Small Business committee announced Saturday it will investigate the effect of small business of the price wars which have broken out in some cities. Chairman Sparkman (D-Ala.) said in a statement that unchecked price cutting "may easily force some small retailers into bankruptcy * * *."

The first posting of ceiling price charts, for the public to see in retail stores, has been ordered into effect today for kosher beef sellers.

Stores selling regular beef at retail have until next Monday to tack up their price posters.

Homicide Is Charged

New York, June 11 (AP)—A 23-year-old youth was charged with homicide today, police said, in the death of an off-duty policeman who died last night shortly after he was struck during a tavern argument. Police said Donald O'Keefe, of Brooklyn, hit Patrolman Joseph O'Toole, 48, in the stomach. O'Toole was held to a seat in a booth by patrons, police said. Half an hour later he was found dead.

Factory Jobs Decline

New York, June 11 (AP)—Factory employment declined 2.8 per cent in New York state between mid-March and mid-April but gained slightly in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the U. S. Department of Labor reported yesterday. The department's regional office said that New Jersey had 0.5 per cent more factory jobs and Pennsylvania 0.2 per cent more during the period.

Reports Damage to House

Mrs. James Lynch of 24 O'Neil street reported to police at 1 a. m. today that a tan or cream colored sedan had just struck and damaged the front porch of her home. The automobile drove away before further identification could be secured.

redeemed in a year the bidder gets possession by a tax deed of any unoccupied parcel. In the event the parcel is occupied, then the owner must be given six months additional notice by the person bidding in the parcel before possession is taken.

Schanzer House Is Destroyed by Fire

Members of the Hurley fire department were summoned to the summer residence of Moe Schanzer on the Whiteport road at 1:15 a. m. Sunday but when they arrived the house, formerly used as a boarding house, was a mass of flames. Schanzer told Chief Winfred Snyder that the fire apparently had started from a pot stove which had been started in the cellar. When the firemen arrived they found the entire upper floor and the second story a mass of flames. Schanzer had to go a half mile to summon the firemen.

At the time of the fire, Mr. and Mrs. Schanzer and their two children were at the house. They reside at 245 Wall street and maintain the country property for summer use. The house is located about a half mile off the Whiteport road and is completely surrounded by woods. Water from a well was used as well as water from the Hurley tank truck but the fire had gained such headway before the firemen arrived that it was impossible to save the structure. Furnishings in the dining room and kitchen were saved by the firemen but it was impossible to enter the other parts of the house due to the rapid spread of the flames. The house was a complete loss. A small building used as garage and living quarters about 40 feet from the main house was saved.

Relic Is Stolen

Greenwich, Eng., June 11 (AP)—Daring thieves today stole a diamond encrusted headdress—a priceless national relic given 150 years ago to Lord Nelson by a sultan of Turkey — from the ground floor of Britain's National Maritime Museum. The thieves slipped through guards but set off a burglar alarm which aroused Scotland Yard's dispatching room at 1:57 a. m. Radio prowl cars, sent at once to the museum, could find no trace of the intruders.

Union Barber Shops Will Close Mondays

All union barber shops in this city will be closed Mondays, it was decided at a meeting of Barbers Union Local 534 this morning.

The action, taken at a meeting at White Eagle Hall on Delaware avenue at 8 a. m. today, is effective immediately, and a spokesman announced the weekly Monday closing will be observed "from today on."

Monday closing has become an established custom in local beauty shops, and now applies as well to barber shops.

Special Meeting Called

any support from the Chinese Nationalist government.

Dr. C. M. Chen, Chinese Nationalist minister, supported Tsiang's comments.

William Loeb, who is president of the American China Policy Association, said at Manchester, N. H., Saturday night that any administration demands for a China lobby inquiry are "just plain bluffing."

Loeb said Secretary of State Acheson "knows as well as anyone that instead of the people he is trying to smear, it is he who is the guilty one." Acheson told senators last week the State Department has a thick file of information about the China lobby, but that most of it is hearsay.

"If I were in Acheson's shoes I would not be too anxious for an investigation of the American China Policy Association," Loeb added.

Directors Named

Loeb said the association directors included Rep. Walter H. Judd (R.-Minn.), Clare Booth Luce, former GOP congresswoman from Connecticut, the Rev. William C. Kernan, Protestant Episcopal minister of Scarsdale, N. Y., former Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S.J., and A. Philip Randolph, head of the Pullman Porters Union.

"These everyday members of the American China Policy Association have pitted their small strength against the billions the Washington government has available," he asserted.

In the Senate, no one seemed sure who would conduct the inquiry if it is ordered. Chairman Russell (D.-Ga.) of the MacArthur investigation said it looked like a job for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) of that group, however, eyed a big backlog of work and showed little relish for the assignment.

turn, it was said, when their craft struck a reef and was disabled.

At low water this morning, the sunken "The Jack" was located and marked for the purposes of a coast guard inquiry into the sinking.

Some party boat skippers who "fished" the waters between Plum Island and Montauk Point yesterday said that "it was acting up a bit, but it wasn't too bad."

"The Jack," a 35-foot party boat, left Niantic, Conn., between 8 and 9 a. m. Sunday carrying six fishermen, Thorson, Schwartz and Schwartz's 10-year-old son, Richard.

Besides the Lombardi's the only other known fishermen was Al Halzinger of (196 Kensington avenue) Meriden. The identities of the other three fishermen were not immediately available.

Vincent Lombardi was found clinging to what appeared to be the top of The Jack's pilot house.

At Milford, Mrs. Ryan said the "Cindy" was scheduled to leave Montauk harbor at 6 a. m. yesterday and was due at Milford harbor around noon. She telephoned the alarm to the coast guard at 11 p. m.

Seek Missing Girl

Local police have been asked by state police at Margaretville to assist in locating a missing girl who may be in this area. The girl, reported missing from Margaretville since 11:30 p. m., June 9, was identified as June Hadden, 15, four feet 11 inches tall, with brown hair and blue eyes. When last seen she was wearing a red flower print dress, white blouse, black and white saddle shoes. She may be with an 18-year-old boy driving a black Plymouth sedan, the report stated.

Wedemeyer Backs

His testimony indicates that he derived that information from an official radiogram dated 7 December 1945, dispatched from MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo after MacArthur-Spruance-Wedemeyer had conferred concerning projected United States assistance to the Nationalist government in China.

Paragraph Quoted

"The secretary quoted a paragraph of that radiogram as follows—This is the last paragraph of that particular radiogram, gentlemen, and I quote:

"'It is suggested that the United States assistance to China, as outlined above, be made available as a basis for negotiation by the American ambassador to bring together and to effect a compromise between the major opposing groups in order to promote a unified democratic China.'

"The secretary of state, Acheson, laid great stress upon the fact that this above recommended action was the policy which General Marshall was sent to China to try to effectuate."

"The foregoing," Wedemeyer said, "unquestionably would lead to the interpretation that I concurred in, and in fact recommended, the formulation of a coalition government in China involving the Nationalists and Communists.

"This interpretation is absolutely incorrect.

"I never believed such a government possible.

"The paragraph quoted by Secretary Acheson was taken out of context from a message which recommended courses of action to be taken to consolidate and strengthen the position of the Nationalist government in China."

James Carey, C.I.O. secretary-treasurer, said under present emergency conditions, meat producers are "racketeering."

Carey and Fleming debated the future of the defense production act on Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's (NBC) television program.

The Senate Small Business committee announced Saturday it will investigate the effect of small business of the price wars which have broken out in some cities. Chairman Sparkman (D-Ala.) said in a statement that unchecked price cutting "may easily force some small retailers into bankruptcy * * *."

The first posting of ceiling price charts, for the public to see in retail stores, has been ordered into effect today for kosher beef sellers.

Stores selling regular beef at retail have until next Monday to tack up their price posters.

Homicide Is Charged

New York, June 11 (AP)—A 23-year-old youth was charged with homicide today, police said, in the death of an off-duty policeman who died last night shortly after he was struck during a tavern argument. Police said Donald O'Keefe, of Brooklyn, hit Patrolman Joseph O'Toole, 48, in the stomach. O'Toole was held to a seat in a booth by patrons, police said. Half an hour later he was found dead.

Factory Jobs Decline

New York, June 11 (AP)—Factory employment declined 2.8 per cent in New York state between mid-March and mid-April but gained slightly in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the U. S. Department of Labor reported yesterday. The department's regional office said that New Jersey had 0.5 per cent more factory jobs and Pennsylvania 0.2 per cent more during the period.

Schanzer House Is Destroyed by Fire

Members of the Hurley fire department were summoned to the summer residence of Moe Schanzer on the Whiteport road at 1:15 a. m. Sunday but when they arrived the house, formerly used as a boarding house, was a mass of flames. Schanzer told Chief Winfred Snyder that the fire apparently had started from a pot stove which had been started in the cellar. When the firemen arrived they found the entire upper floor and the second story a mass of flames. Schanzer had to go a half mile to summon the firemen.

At the time of the fire, Mr. and Mrs. Schanzer and their two children were at the house. They reside at 245 Wall street and maintain the country property for summer use. The house is located about a half mile off the Whiteport road and is completely surrounded by woods. Water from a well was used as well as water from the Hurley tank truck but the fire had gained such headway before the firemen arrived that it was impossible to save the structure. Furnishings in the dining room and kitchen were saved by the firemen but it was impossible to enter the other parts of the house due to the rapid spread of the flames. The house was a complete loss. A small building used as garage and living quarters about 40 feet from the main house was saved.

Relic Is Stolen

Greenwich, Eng., June 11 (AP)—Daring thieves today stole a diamond encrusted headdress—a priceless national relic given 150 years ago to Lord Nelson by a sultan of Turkey — from the ground floor of Britain's National Maritime Museum. The thieves slipped through guards but set off a burglar alarm which aroused Scotland Yard's dispatching room at 1:57 a. m. Radio prowl cars, sent at once to the museum, could find no trace of the intruders.

Union Barber Shops Will Close Mondays

All union barber shops in this city will be closed Mondays, it was decided at a meeting of Barbers Union Local 534 this morning.

The action, taken at a meeting at White Eagle Hall on Delaware avenue at 8 a. m. today, is effective immediately, and a spokesman announced the weekly Monday closing will be observed "from today on."

Monday closing has become an established custom in local beauty shops, and now applies as well to barber shops.

Iran Gives Note To Ambassador

By JAMES M. LONG

Tehran, Iran, June 11 (AP)—Iran today replied to President Truman's appeal to this country for moderation and negotiation in Iran's oil nationalization program.

U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady was summoned to the office of Foreign Minister Bagher Kazemi to receive the reply, contents of which were not immediately disclosed. The cabinet is reported to have drafted the reply in a session last night.

President Truman had expressed "the strongest anxiety" over Iran's oil crisis and had urged negotiation with the British in a personal note to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh on June 1.

New British-Iranian talks were about to get under way, but there was no clear indication whether a decisive step was impending on the takeover of the billion-dollar oil industry or whether the talks would represent marking time by the Iranian government.

With British negotiators due here today to start high-level discussions, a 12-man Iranian government group was to meet in Abadan, site of the world's largest refinery, to discuss the takeover with local officials of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The oil company's resident British manager in Abadan, A. E. C. Drake, said he would give Iran's delegation housing and office space. But should the Iranians demand the keys to the company's offices and its refinery, a serious crisis might result.

Iranian officials here said refinery workers had declared if the refinery's British managers proved stubborn, the employes would take matters into their own hands.

Would You Feel Safe?
If you used a fuel which the supplier is already warning you to conserve?!
What will happen when defense production is stepped up? Will a "We Regret To Inform You—" advertisement keep you warm?
You have already been warned, by a utility company advertisement in this paper that they may have to generate a substitute for natural gas.
YOU REMEMBER ONLY TOO WELL HOW MUCH MONEY MANUFACTURED GAS COST!
A general consensus of opinion states that natural gas already costs more than other fuels — how would you react to a further substantial increase on top of that?
Other fuels do not depend on thousands of miles of vulnerable pipe lines to reach your heating plant — your dealer has a full winter's supply

Iran Gives Note To Ambassador

By JAMES M. LONG

Tehran, Iran, June 11 (AP)—Iran today replied to President Truman's appeal to this country for moderation and negotiation in Iran's oil nationalization program.

U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady was summoned to the office of Foreign Minister Bagher Kazemi to receive the reply, contents of which were not immediately disclosed. The cabinet is reported to have drafted the reply in a session last night.

President Truman had expressed "the strongest anxiety" over Iran's oil crisis and had urged negotiation with the British in a personal note to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh on June 1.

New British-Iranian talks were about to get under way, but there was no clear indication whether a decisive step was impending on the takeover of the billion-dollar oil industry or whether the talks would represent marking time by the Iranian government.

With British negotiators due here today to start high-level discussions, a 12-man Iranian government group was to meet in Abadan, site of the world's largest refinery, to discuss the takeover with local officials of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The oil company's resident British manager in Abadan, A. E. C. Drake, said he would give Iran's delegation housing and office space. But should the Iranians demand the keys to the company's offices and its refinery, a serious crisis might result.

Iranian officials here said refinery workers had declared if the refinery's British managers proved stubborn, the employes would take matters into their own hands.
